Kennedy To Report On State Of Union

Message Will Be Delivered Next Week

President Rules Out Any Rush To Summit In Dealings Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will go before Congress next week and deliver a State of the Union message.

This was announced Monday after Kennedy reviewed U.S. foreign and defense policies around the globe in a day-long conference with top aides.

A specific date for next week's address before a joint session of the Senate and House probably will be set at White House meeting Tuesday between the President and Democratic congressional leaders.

Kennedy's State of the Union message may be expected to include a distillation of ideas developed at Monday's conference on international problems and national security.

One of these, an administration spokesman said, is a determination that there will be no rushing to summit meetings in an effort to cure world problems.

The spokesman said Kennedy intends to stress the use of regular diplomatic channels in foreign affairs dealings, although he said this did not rule out summit meetings where adequate preparation may have been made.

Inaugural Address Recalled

In next week's speech Kennedy may elaborate on his inaugural address of last Friday. He said then that both sides in the cold war should make a new try for peace, and emphasized at the same time that the United States will pay any price to maintain liberty.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, announced the President's plans to go before Congress. Salinger said he believed the State of the Union message would not spell out any legislative proposals, but that these would be set forth in special messages to Congress later on.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent to Congress on Jan. 12 the annual State of the Union message required at the start of a new session. Kennedy's decision to submit his own message is nothing new. Eisenhower did the same in 1953 after he took over the presidency from Harry S. Truman.

Both Republicans and Democrats welcomed the President's decision to outline his program in person.

Cabinet Meeting Thursday

Salinger said Rusk and McNamara will return Tuesday for a discussion of disarmament, and on Thursday Kennedy will hold his first Cabinet meeting.

Salinger told newsmen he believed the President would meet with other administration officials later to discuss domestic subjects to be included in his State of the Union message.

Others taking part in Tuesday's disarmament conference will include John J. McCloy, new chief of the U.S. Disarmament Administration; McGeorge Bundy, presidential aide on national security matters; Paul H. Nitze, designated assistant secretary of defense for international affairs, including disarmament; and Jerome Wiesner, the President's science adviser.

Invited to Kennedy's first weekly meeting with Democratic congressional leaders Tuesday are Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, Sens. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Humphrey, and George Smathers of Florida, and Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and Carl Albert of Oklahoma.

Larger Rules Group Opposed By House GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans voted Monday to oppose a plan to make the rules committee more liberal by enlarging it. The vote could bode trouble for the Kennedy program.

How much trouble depends on how many Republicans oppose the plan when it comes to the floor of the House Thursday.

The plan was devised by Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex. His aim: To break the Republican-Southern Democratic grip on the committee. Rayburn wants to increase committee memberships.

In previous Congresses, House leaders have been unable to push some liberal bills past a Republican-Southern Democratic coalition on the committee. Rayburn's plan would break this blockade by adding two Democrats who would vote with the leadership.

The Republican leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, implied the plan would run into a wall of Republican opposition. He said 140 of the 174 Republican representatives met at a party conference and that "an overwhelming majority" approved a resolution opposing the Rayburn plan.

But another Republican, who would not permit use of his name, said Halleck had little or no hope of defeating it.

The Democrats, who have a decisive majority in the House, approved the plan at a recent caucus.

But Southern Conservatives have indicated they will oppose it in the floor fight. If enough Republicans joined them, the plan could be defeated.

Another plan to make the rules committee more liberal met a quiet death when the House voted to keep Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., on the committee.

The vote on Colmer came as no surprise, for liberals had abandoned hopes of purging him and had supported Rayburn's plan instead.

The nominations were approved in one of the Senate's longest meetings of the new session with only opposition or substantial debate centering on Bowles and Connally.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., opposed the Connally appointment on grounds that the Fort Worth, Tex., attorney's oil interests could produce a conflict of interest. Sen. Wayne L. Morse, D-Ore., who was absent, voiced similar objections Saturday.

Sens. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Andrew F. Schoepfel, R-Kan., opposed Bowles' nomination. After it was overwhelmingly approved by

Blaze Injures 23 On Saratoga

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The U. S. aircraft carrier Saratoga caught fire at sea Monday and seven crewmen were asphyxiated. Twenty-three were injured, one seriously, in this second such tragedy to strike an American carrier in little more than a month.

A broken fuel oil line caused the blaze, which broke out at 2 a.m. in a machinery compartment below decks while the Saratoga—a powerful unit of the U.S. 6th Fleet—was steaming across the Ionian Sea toward Athens.

Fire control parties among the 3,800 officers and men aboard fought the flames for two hours and finally extinguished them without help from other ships of the fleet, with which it had been on patrol in the eastern Mediterranean.

Dead Include Four Officers

The 76,000-ton vessel, commanded by Capt. R. W. Mehle of Cincinnati, Ohio, put into Phaleron Bay near Athens under its own power.

The dead were four officers and three enlisted men.

Rear Adm. Davis L. MacDonald, commander of the fleet's Carrier Task Force 60, whose flagship is the Saratoga, issued this statement: "While cruising in the Ionian Sea at 2 a.m. today the aircraft carrier Saratoga experienced a ruptured oil line in a machinery space, resulting in a serious fire which was fought for two hours before being controlled."

"It caused very heavy and dense smoke resulting in the asphyxiation of four officers and three enlisted men, a total of seven fatalities; and other injuries of a less serious nature."

"After controlling the fire, the Saratoga went under her own power to her previously scheduled anchorage at Athens, arriving just a little late."

Navy Investigating

Vice Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., the fleet commander, appointed Rear Adm. Arthur R. Gralla, commander of Destroyer Flotilla 2, as president of a court of inquiry.

The Saratoga is a Forrestal-class sister ship of the new Constellation which was severely damaged by fire at the Brooklyn Navy Yard Dec. 19. Fifty civilian workers lost their lives on the Constellation and the Navy estimated damage at nearly $48 million.

The Forrestal-class carriers are the world's largest and most expensive.

With an angled flight deck for fighters and bombers, the Saratoga is 1,045 feet long. The deck is 252 feet across at its widest point.

Ernest Hemingway

Leaves Mayo Clinic

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UPI) — Famed American novelist Ernest Hemingway left the Mayo Clinic Sunday as quietly as he entered it to undergo treatment for hypertension 53 days ago, it was revealed Monday.

The 61-year-old Nobel Prize-winning author, who entered the clinic under the assumed name of George Saviers, checked out at 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

High Court Upholds Film Censorship

Chicago Ordinance Held Constitutional In 5 To 4 Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a 5-4 decision, the Supreme Court Monday upheld the censorship of motion pictures before they are shown.

The minority said the decision meant that the door is being opened to the broad censorship of all expression.

The case involved a Chicago ordinance requiring approval by city censors before a motion picture may be shown publicly. This law was challenged by the Times Film Corp. which refused to submit its movie "Don Juan" to the censors. The movie was then banned.

Statute "Not Void On Its Face"

The law violated the First Amendment of the Constitution which guarantees free speech, Times Film said when it took the case to the courts.

The high court upheld the statute, saying: "Chicago's ordinance requiring submission of films prior to their public exhibition is not, on the grounds set forth, void on its face."

The majority opinion, delivered by Justice Tom C. Clark, added: "It never has been held that liberty of speech is absolute."

Joining Clark were Justices Felix Frankfurter, Potter Stewart, Charles E. Whittaker, and John Marshall Harlan.

Clark, Warren Disagree

Apparently trying to withhold any implication of sweeping censorship, Clark denied that the ruling gives city officials "power to prevent the showing of any motion picture they deem unworthy of a license."

He added that "we intimate no opinion" on what may happen "when a concrete case involving a specific standard provided by the ordinance is presented."

Ike Begins His Ga. Vacation

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the weight of world problems lifted from his shoulders, arrived in this south Georgia city Monday for his first vacation since leaving the White House.

Eisenhower went directly to the Blue Springs Plantation, a 15,000-acre private quail-hunting preserve, where he will spend the next week or so as the guest of wealthy New York oilman W. Alton Jones.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who doesn't dislike cold weather as much as her husband, remained in Gettysburg.

Bandits Murder 12

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Bandits dressed as soldiers killed 12 persons Monday in Valle del Cauca State. The bandits got into various homes by saying they were looking for escaped prisoners.

The unions struck for a guarantee that five-man tugboat crews would not be reduced in size. The 11 railroads involved wanted the right eventually to cut off at least one crewman per tug.

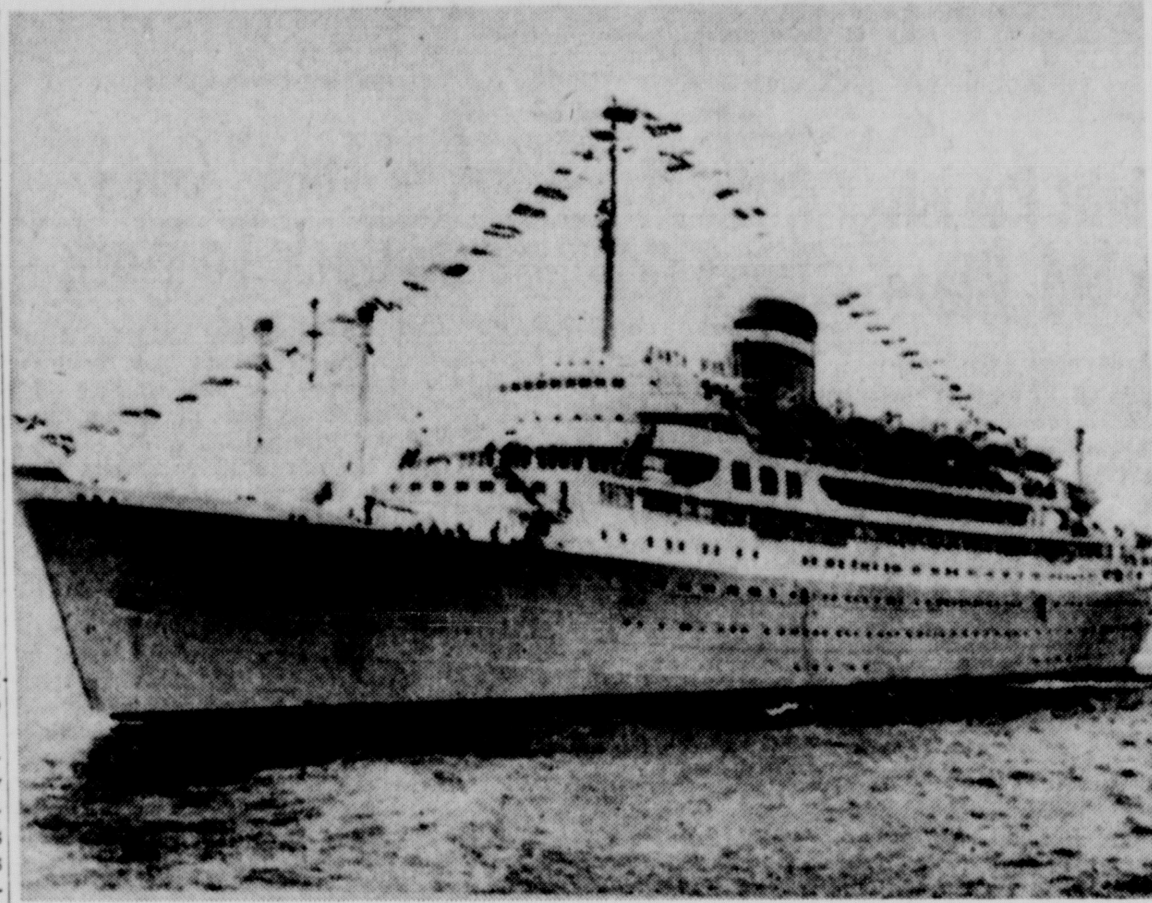

The tugboat strikers and the railroads agreed to shelve the whole issue until next December, when a holdover study commission appointed by President Eisenhower completes a survey of railroad manning problems.

2,000 Attend Last Rites For Dooley

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Young Dr. Thomas A. Dooley was buried in Calvary Cemetery Monday, half a world away from the remote sections of Asia where he introduced modern medicine.

Nearly 2,000 persons gathered in the big St. Louis Cathedral for the funeral of the medical missionary who fought ignorance and disease in Laos and other far-off places.

The St. Louis-born physician died in New York City of cancer last Wednesday, the day after his 34th birthday.

600 Passengers On Vessel Hijacked By Armed Band

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI)—A Portuguese cruise liner carrying 600 passengers, including some Americans, was hijacked by passengers armed with machineguns and grenades in Latin American waters Monday, the navies of three nations reported.

U.S. and British warships were sent to intercept the liner, the Santa Maria.

A Canadian navy spokesman said the uprising broke out aboard the 20,906-ton gray-hulled liner as it sailed from the island of Curacao off Venezuela to go to Miami. A spokesman said the vessel was last sighted Monday morning, miles off course, headed for an unknown destination.

One ship's officer was killed and another wounded in the uprising, the Canadian spokesman said. The wounded officer was put ashore at the British island of St. Lucia, the spokesman said, and the ship then sailed away, with the insurgents warning they would scuttle it if a warship approached.

U.S. Sends Destroyers

Despite the air of near-fantasy about the report of piracy on the high seas, the navies of three nations—Canada, the United States and Great Britain—announced the piracy and two nations were taking action to intercept the ship.

The U.S. Navy said in Washington that it was sending destroyers from Puerto Rico "to intercept the vessel under the well-defined terms of international law governing piracy and insurrection aboard ship." The Navy also sent out planes to spot the Santa Maria.

In London, the British Navy reported that 70 passengers, armed with machineguns and hand grenades had taken over the ship.

The admiral said the anti-submarine frigate Rothesay, visiting in St. Lucia, had been dispatched to search for the Santa Maria. Commodore H. C. J. Shand, the senior British naval officer in the West Indies, was aboard the Rothesay.

The Canadian navy said the uprising was led by a former Portuguese army captain, who was a passenger.

Ship Reported "Engine Trouble"

In Miami, H. O. Shaw, president of Shaw Bros. Shipping Co., agents for the ship, said the Santa Maria was due in Port Everglades near Fort Lauderdale about 2 p.m. Tuesday afternoon. He said the ship had been due to arrive at 7 a.m. Tuesday, "but we had a message from the ship this afternoon saying they are having engine trouble and would be a little delayed."

Shaw said he had not heard of any uprising aboard the vessel and that the cable he received Monday did not mention it.

Shaw said his office received the message about 5 p.m. He said it was unsigned.

In Lisbon, the vessel's owners, the Companhia Colonial de Navegacao, said "We have no confirmation." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

More Jobless

Aid Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg Monday reported a new increase in unemployment. He said he strongly favors some quick special federal aid to the idle.

Goldberg forecast President Kennedy will have something to say on the subject at Kennedy's first news conference as chief executive Wednesday.

The new secretary of labor spoke with newsmen after conferring with Kennedy at the White House on the unemployment situation.

Goldberg and the President also discussed the significant role Goldberg played in settlement of the deadlocked New York harbor strike that had tied up rail transportation in the east.

What is being considered, apparently, is something like the temporary expansion of jobless pay by the Eisenhower administration during the 1958 recession. This would help workers still jobless after exhausting their right to state payments, as well as idled workers not covered by the various unemployment compensation programs.

The new idle figures, which Goldberg had just given to Kennedy, indicated that the mid-January unemployed total will exceed 5.5 million. The latest official count, as of mid-December, showed 4.5 million unemployed.

Goldberg Helps Settle Railroad Tugboat Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A two-week strike by a small band of railroad tugboat crewmen was settled Monday with the aid of the nation's new secretary of labor.

The walkout stranded 100,000 metropolitan commuters and closed main-line tracks as far west as Chicago.

Hudson River ferry service for 30,000 New Jersey passengers was the first to be resumed late in the day, after being closed since Jan. 9 by the strike of 664 railroad mariners.

The New York Central and the New Haven Railroads overnight were shaping up trains that carry 70,000 other commuters.

Freight embargoes, imposed to keep railroad cars from piling up at strikebound terminals, were lifted.

Taking a hand in the settlement of a bitter dispute over the size of tugboat crews was Arthur J. Goldberg, who came here less than 24 hours after he was sworn in as the nation's new Democratic labor secretary. He is former general counsel of the AFL-CIO.

Goldberg was dispatched to New York by President Kennedy, and the quick settlement that followed was attributed in some labor circles to White House pressure by the new President.

Paul Hall, president of the striking Seafarers' International Union, said Goldberg's intervention in a final 14-hour negotiating session on the strike "had shortened it by weeks, if not longer."

By a vote of 262-2, striking members of the Seafarers and two other railroad maritime unions—the Marine Engineers Association and the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union—agreed to shelve for the time being the issue over the size of crews on 51 railroad tugs in New York Harbor.

From this small but significant issue had evolved a deadlock that crippled rail transportation service in the Eastern third of the nation during the icy depths of a savage winter.

The unions struck for a guarantee that five-man tugboat crews would not be reduced in size. The 11 railroads involved wanted the right eventually to cut off at least one crewman per tug.

The tugboat strikers and the railroads agreed to shelve the whole issue until next December, when a holdover study commission appointed by President Eisenhower completes a survey of railroad manning problems.

No Time Limit On Kennedy's Press Sessions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Monday that President Kennedy will not impose any time limits on his news conferences and that they are liable to run longer or shorter than those of President Eisenhower, depending on circumstances.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said efforts will be made to have the news conferences each Wednesday, if possible, although he cannot guarantee that there will be one each week or that another day of the week may not be chosen.

There was a 30-minute time maximum on Eisenhower's question and answer sessions with newsmen.

Cuban Women Stage Protest

HAVANA (UPI) — Women demonstrators against Castro regime executions clashed Monday with a howling, stick-waving mob of Castro supporters in front of the presidential palace.

The mob broke up the demonstration, which was made up of about 100 women carrying signs that said "cease executions of our sons." Some were believed to be widows of men executed by Castro firing squads.

The women, most of them poorly dressed, were harassed on their march by youths who shouted "to the wall" when they read the signs.

In front of the palace, the destination of the protest march, the mob dispersed the women.

Queen's Hunting Party

Fails To Even See Tiger

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, sat in shooting boxes 25 feet up in jungle trees for six hours Monday, but their tiger hunt failed to yield a tiger. Not one showed up, and not a shot was fired.

Elaborate arrangements had been made for a month in an effort to insure that a tiger would appear at the proper time and place for the visiting royalty, but the tigers apparently failed to get the message. One was reported seen in the jungle and around lunchtime, but beaters whacking their way through the underbrush failed to stir up a thing.

The queen, wearing khaki-colored linen slacks and a bush jacket, with a scarf over her head, was in one box and Philip in another. Some of the members of

Parts Of Frigid East Get More Snow; Toll Rises

By The Associated Press

Winter stung the Eastern half of the country with more bitter cold weather Monday, while new snows fell in Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia and closed schools as far south as North Carolina.

As the cold air knifed into the Deep South, a snowfall in Elizabeth City, N.C., closed schools, and flurries dusted South Carolina. Freezing weather nipped Georgia, Virginia, West Virginia and Florida.

The snowstorm slicked highways throughout the East, causing many traffic fatalities. It also brought cancellation of Monday's nine-race program at the Bowie track in Maryland.

At least 71 deaths were attributed to the cold and last week's storms and blizzards.

The Philadelphia area had another inch of snow Monday, and Pennsylvania added another weather death to its toll. The victim died as a result of exposure in weather 30 degrees below zero in Schuylkill County in east-central Pennsylvania.

Below-zero readings were common at dawn throughout the East. The Weather Bureau said zero levels would edge as far south as the mountains of Maryland and West Virginia and the upper Ohio Valley during the night.

Snow fell from southern New England and New Jersey into the eastern Ohio Valley, with another widely scattered band of flurries spilling from the Dakotas into Michigan.

Jackie Off To Fast Start In Changing White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy is making a fast start on redecorating the White House — with some suggestions from her husband and plenty of ideas of her own.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger made it clear, however, that the President and his wife are anxious to "preserve the present atmosphere of the White House," and plan no change in the public rooms.

Salinger told newsmen some changes will be made in the residential quarters to make them "more in keeping with President and Mrs. Kennedy's own taste."

Kennedy, a World War II torpedo boat skipper, has asked his wife to find him a painting of a naval battle to hang over the fireplace in his office.

That's the first order of business for the new First Lady. She's also arranged conferences with some well-known art experts and a decorator of her own from New York.

The preface to the inaugural poem by Robert Frost gets the distinction of being the first framed work the Kennedys will hang on the walls of the presidential mansion.

When he visited the White House Sunday, Frost presented a handwritten copy and Mrs. Kennedy had it framed, Salinger reported.

Mrs. Kennedy will confer with John Walker, director of the National Gallery of Art, and William Walton, a Washington artist, friend and campaign organizer for Kennedy.

The gallery frequently lends art masterpieces to be hung in the White House, and Mrs. Kennedy plans to discuss the lending project.

Adlai Takes Over As Envoy To U.N.

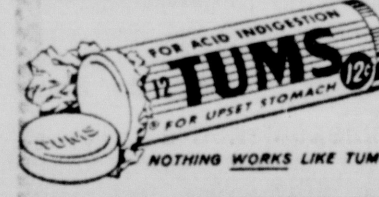

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson took over as U. S. ambassador to the United Nations Monday, faced with new problems in The Congo and a "no progress" report on efforts to end South Africa's racial policies.

Stevenson presented his credentials to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld as permanent representative of the United States and descended to the lobby of world headquarters to be greeted by headquarters from secretariat members and sightseers.

More Than 50 Die In Weekend House Blazes

By The Associated Press

House fires that broke out Monday and over the weekend took a heavy toll across the country. More than 50 persons died, including at least 28 children.

The worst of the blazes killed seven young children and an adult Monday at Pasadena, Md., about half way between Baltimore and Annapolis. Parents of the children were visiting neighbors at the time.

The victims were Donald L. Green, 9 months, and his brothers and sisters, Maryland, 2; Winifred, 3; Yvette, 4; Joeline, 5; Aaron, 6; a cousin, Regina Wright, 10; and an uncle, Bernard Green, 33, who was caring for them.

Another blaze killed a mother and six of her nine children in their tenement apartment in Brooklyn Sunday morning.

Police said the fire might have been started by one of the children, Charles Fancher, 4, playing with matches.

Killed in addition to the boy were Anna Fancher, 36; Howard, 9; Josephine, 7; Nancy, 3; Florence, 2; and Helen, 1.

In Clermont, Fla., four children died when a heater exploded Saturday night and ignited the house. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yllyses Harris, were visiting in nearby Orlando.

The young victims were Lewis, 7; Grace, 5; Sharon Ann, 3; and Ulysses Jr., 1.

Four other children lost their lives Saturday in a fire that swept through their four-room house at Aurelle, Ark.

Their father, George Lovette, was at work at the time, and their mother had gone to a neighbor's home to get water. Killed were Brenda, 4; Gloria, 3; George, 19 months; and Vanessa, 6 months.

Two more children perished Sunday in a blazing frame house in Elizabeth City, N.C. They were Robert C. Nixon Jr., 7, and Carol Denise White, 4.

Eight Perish In Md. Blaze

PASADENA, Md. (AP)—A faulty oil furnace apparently caused a fire which took the lives of seven Negro children and their uncle Monday, fire investigators said.

The death toll was the worst in the history of Anne Arundel County involving a single dwelling. One boy escaped death by jumping from a second story window of the cinder block and frame house off a gravel road near here, midway between Baltimore and Annapolis.

The survivor, Lawrence Wright, 12, was taken to Anne Arundel General Hospital, where he was kept in an oxygen tent through Monday night as a precautionary measure.

The oxygen treatment was the result of heavy smoke inhalation suffered by the boy before he was able to smash out a window and leap to safety in foot-deep snow outside the house.

Cuts suffered by the youngster in his leap to safety were described as minor by the hospital.

Dead in the fire were the boy's sister, Regina Wright, 10, and their half-sisters and half-brothers—Aaron Green, 6; Joeline, 5; Yvette, 4; Winifred, 3; Maryland, 2; and Donald, 9 months, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Green, the Wright youngsters were children of Mrs. Green by a previous marriage.

The parents were at the home of relatives at the time of the fire, helping with arrangements for the funeral of Green's grandmother, who died Sunday. Another child, Roslyn Green, 8, was spending the night at the home of an aunt and was spared.

Irate Italian Farmers Riot

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Two thousand irate farmers and 100 club-swinging riot police battled for half an hour in downtown Milan Monday in a new outbreak of disorders over imported beef and butter.

Scores of farmers were bruised in the fighting, and one was taken to a hospital after being knocked down by a riot police jeep. Nine were detained by police for questioning.

It was the fifth outbreak of violence in a week here and in nearby cities, where farmers are protesting that Italy's imports of low-priced foreign beef and butter are undercutting the prices of local produce.

The farmers poured into Milan from the countryside and massed in front of the Palazzo Serbelloni where Mario Martinielli, minister of foreign trade, was conferring with local officials. The fighting started when the farmers were told they could not see Martinielli.

Police finally scattered the farmers into side streets. By noon they had begun to disperse and go back to their farms. Their leaders said they would be back.

Tawes Rejects County Tax Plan

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Monday formally rejected proposals by the State Association of County Commissioners for increases in the sales and income taxes to give local governments more revenue.

He told officials of the association that the proposals would have no chance of passage in the current session of the legislature.

The group had sought a one percent increase in the sales tax to be levied at the option of local governments and a 1/2 per cent increase in the state income tax, which would send that rate to 3.5 per cent. This would increase their share of the tax.

Tawes' rejection of the proposals was expected since he has endorsed a $9 million program in aid to local governments and agreed to back it up by lowering the sales tax to purchases of 25 cents and applying the tax to meals.

"Tony" Goes Back To Work

LONDON (AP)—Antony Armstrong-Jones went back to work Monday, 11 months after he shut his photographic studio and married Princess Margaret.

He was a little nervous and, like men all over the world, he had a parking problem.

Traffic Warden No. 69 said to Tony's chauffeur: "Sorry, but you can't stop here."

The driver had parked Princess Margaret's black sedan smack in front of the Council of Industrial Design's nine-story building in busy Haymarket and was waiting to take Tony home for lunch, having previously delivered him at 9:45 a.m.

The royal chauffeur went around the block and Tony, leaving by a side door, popped into the car and roared off for lunch with his wife at Kensington Palace.

He was walking up the steps there as Big Ben boomed one. An hour and four minutes later he was back at work. Including those 64 minutes, he put in a 7-hour and 40-minute day—"a full stint," another official called it.

At his own request, it's a job without pay, but with an expense account.

Specifically, the job is: "An adviser on problems of visual presentation and display."

Two more children perished Sunday in a blazing frame house in Elizabeth City, N.C. They were Robert C. Nixon Jr., 7, and Carol Denise White, 4.

Shaw said the ship sails monthly from Port Everglades for Spain, touching at South Atlantic islands. On the return voyage it goes to Venezuela and then back to Port Everglades.

Shaw described the ship as "primarily a passenger ship which carries some cargo too."

He said that he did not have a passenger list with names but that about 600 passengers were aboard, including women and children of various nationalities. Among them were Americans, Portuguese, Venezuelans, Dutch and Greek, he said. The crew was Portuguese, he added.

New Fashions Leave Figure To Imagination

PARIS (AP)—An unfitted flare that leaves the figure almost entirely up to the imagination is Pierre Cardin's new shape for spring.

Possibly based—very loosely indeed—on the sarong, it was by far the most exciting thing seen on the opening day of the 1961 spring and summer fashion season.

Knees are covered and bosoms flattened, but the Cardin clothes are not without a languishing sort of sex appeal.

A barefooted Tahitian, in sarong, flower lei and flowing tresses, strolled out to open the show. This was Yen, Cardin's newest and most exotic mannequin, who joins a Siamese and a Japanese girl already modeling there.

The Cardin line ranges from outright sacks, some of them pleated, to a princess-on-the-loose shape, vaguely fitted in front and flowing in the breeze behind. One of his biggest ideas is a wrapped-over and free-falling back panel.

Fashion goes round and round reasonably slim. Two types of skirts prevail—flared, or straight behind with a softly gathered front. Most jackets are short, but some near-tunics drop to the bottom of the hipline.

Fruit colors, inspired by Gauguin paintings, include raspberry, orange, tangerine, and pale apricot, but black and gray are also in the picture.

Materials include silk crepes, chiffons, dark slubbed silk Madras plaids, linen-weave and soft woolsens.

Cardin hats taper from an inch-wide brim over the brow to an outsized scoop behind. He showed an all-flower handbag that looked like a miniature baby, bassinet and another in puffed lace. His two ideas for trimmings are a big bunch of cherries on the shoulder or hip, and a nosegay of violets perched like a chip on the shoulder.

Perhaps the most attractive and wearable of his new creations with South African Prime Minister Henry Verwoerd.

Dag Reports Failure

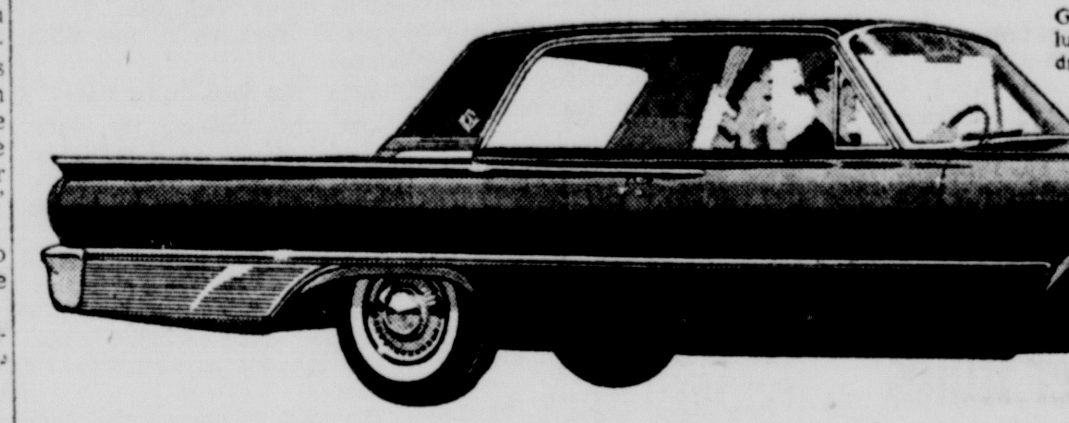

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld reported failure Monday to reach agreement with the South African government on safeguards for human rights. He said efforts would continue.

Hammarskjöld's report to the Security Council concerned talks with South African Prime Minister Henry Verwoerd.

Only FORD is beautifully built to take care of itself

HERE'S HOW THE '61 FORD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF

Lubricates itself—You'll normally go 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications (which cost only about $4.00 and take about 20 minutes) because Ford has replaced conventional grease fittings with a sealed-in lubrication system.

Cleans its own oil—You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes because Ford's Full-Flow oil filter gives you filtration through fibers . . . trapping more dirt than any other type of filter made.

Adjusts its own brakes—New Truck Size brakes adjust themselves—automatically.

Guards its own muffler—Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.

Protects its own body—All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing the body panels beneath the doors.

Takes care of its own finish—Just wash and clean Ford's new Diamond Lustre Finish and it continues to glisten like new. It never needs waxing.

HOW TWO MEN AND THIS TELEPHONE SAVED A LIFE

It was 8:45 A.M. Clyde Taylor, telephone maintenance man, worked at his test desk trying to trace the cause of a continuous busy signal on one of the telephones in his exchange. As Clyde ran a series of trouble checks, he suddenly thought he heard a low moaning sound.

He immediately dispatched one of his repairmen, George Daniels, to the home where the telephone was located. When no one answered the doorbell, Mr. Daniels looked inside the house through a window. Lying prostrate on the floor was an elderly man. Beside him on a table was his telephone, the receiver hanging off the hook.

Later, at the hospital, authorities said that the quick action of this telephone maintenance team saved this heart attack victim's life.

We're happy that the desire of telephone people to be of service so often results in even more than good telephone service.

"Ladybird" Will Christen Ship

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will come to Baltimore Tuesday to christen a ship.

The wife of the vice president will do the honors for the S. S. Solan Turman, multi-million dollar cargo liner built for the Lykes Bros. Steamship Co.

With her as matron of honor will be Mrs. John B. Connally Jr. of Fort Worth, wife of the new secretary of Navy.

Mrs. Johnson will arrive on a special train from Washington for the 1:30 p. m. ceremony at the Sparrows Point yards of the Bethlehem Steel Co.

On the train will be several members of Congress and members of the new official family in Washington.

The $10 million vessel is named for Solon B. Turman of New Orleans, president of the Lykes company. It replaces another Solon Turman built by Bethlehem in 1941. The older vessel is being retired.

The new cargo liner is the sixth in a replacement program and the first of eight under construction by Bethlehem. The full replacement program calls for 53 ships at a cost of about a half billion dollars.

The Lykes firm has been identified with Gulf port shipping for 60 years. Some of its earliest sailing originated in Houston and Galveston.

Maryland Briefs

SALISBURY (AP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon for Calvin D. Morris, 92, a retired farmer and one-time judge of the Wicomico County Orphans Court. He died at his home here Saturday.

BALTIMORE (AP)—John A. Wallace, 45, a probation specialist for the Supreme Bench of Baltimore, has been named director of the newly created Office of Probation for New York City. Wallace will direct the work of more than 1,000 persons.

BALTIMORE (AP)—A five-year-old girl, severely burned when her clothing was set afire by a curling iron, was reported in fair condition at a hospital Monday.

The youngster, Dorothy Jean Hill, suffered first, second and third degree burns over her entire body in the accident Sunday. She picked up the iron from a burner on a gas stove when her mother stepped out of the room for a moment.

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Montgomery County citizens will have an opportunity Wednesday night to air their views on a proposed increase in the county's school board operating budget.

About 500 persons are expected to attend the meeting at Richard Montgomery High School here.

Critics say they will question the wisdom of a budget provision for salary increases to administrators while there is none for teachers. The school budget of $46.5 million is $8 million more than the present budget.

BALTIMORE (AP)—An abominable snowman in Baltimore? Could be, perhaps, the way the weather is going these days. Anyway, Northern district police are on the lookout for a six-foot creature, heavily covered with black hair, which has big eyes, long teeth and looks like a kangaroo.

The beast turned up Sunday on the parking lot of a service station, police were told. Officers responding to a call for help followed a trail of footprints—about the size of half dollars—for a block or so, before the tracks vanished in a backyard.

Die In Chase

FAVERSHAM, England (UPI)—Eight beagles chasing a rabbit were electrocuted Sunday when the rabbit led them across the electrified track of a rail line near here. The rabbit got away. A week ago, 19 foxhounds were killed in a similar third rail accident at nearby Martin Mill. The fox also escaped.

Ten-degree temperatures and a foot-deep blanket of snow on surrounding roads hampered fire-fighting efforts. One boy, 12, escaped. (AP Photofax)

Jokester Duns Md. For $14 Million

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A 6 per cent. "The corn was for use by the Continental Army during the Revolutionary War."

Matheny, a paint store operator, figured up the interest compounded at 6 per cent in modern dollar equivalent and arrived at $14,160,250 as the accrued amount due on the note.

Jestingly, he wrote Maryland officials asking payment. Maryland authorities replied stiffly that the statute of limitations had run out. Furthermore, they said, the federal government in 1790 assumed the debts of American colonies arising from the Revolutionary War.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A Phony Is Easily Spotted

What's your impression of the girl who puts on an act?

When less than one out of a thousand who have talent can make the grade professionally as an actress or actor, what chance has the teenager who dresses up in slinky, black satin and tries to pass for twenty-one or as a femme fatale?

All she's likely to get is a laugh from the local Montgomery Clift whom she wants to impress. And the worst of it is, despite the fact that the movies and radio find this situation a sure comic hit whenever they need one, phonies aren't always funny. Too often they are tragic. But tragic or not, there's one big thing they never are—and that is romantic.

Whether you are at an age when you gleefully acclaim the added year every time your birthday rolls around, or greet it in opposite fashion, the only way you can win the personal recognition you desire is by acting like yourself at all times—your most natural, attractive self, at that.

But don't confuse being natural with being overly casual. Jeans and joes when worn in the wrong places are just as much of a pose and affection as the slinky dress worn in the juke joint. And wearing bluejeans downtown certainly won't encourage the salesgirl to give you mink-coat service.

If you are on the threshold of the years you most long for, you can take a step toward the grown-up recognition you feel you deserve by striving to look and act as though you are worth it. No more slopping around the campus (even in "girls only" schools). No more shuffling around home (even the family has eyes that can see). No more careless, ungroomed saunters into town (even your best beau might happen along).

Any girl can cop term honors in popularity in a breeze if she looks, speaks and acts in a way that is natural to her personality and to the places that her personality deigns to frequent.

Start now to be your natural self—in such a way that others will recognize you immediately for what you are: a charming, appealing young woman!

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

A worthwhile investment in charm for every girl starting a business career—every girl or woman now in business who is eager to reach top-flight success. It tells you how to make that important "good impression" to get your job... reveals secrets on how to hold your job. See how easy it is to choose a suitable wardrobe. Save time—uncertainty—needless worry through these short cut steps in charm that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. ## Queen City Grove 11 To Plan Projects For Year

Queen City Grove 11, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, met Friday evening at the Woodmen of the World Hall, Union Street. Mrs. Ruth Spera, first vice president, presided in the absence of Mrs. Albert Lindner, president, who is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Mrs. Edna German, secretary, read communications from the national president, Mrs. Lena Alexander Shugart, notifying the Grove of the deaths of two life members. The charter will be draped for a period of 90 days in their memory. Mrs. Jeanie Willard, honorary national past president for life, died January 3 at her home in Denison, Texas. She became a member of White Rose Grove 4 in November, 1905, and has held many state and national offices. Mrs. Henrietta A. Snider, national vice president and life member of the national convention, died January 7 at her home in Atlanta, Georgia. She became a member of Maple Grove 10, Fairmont, W. Va., June, 1913. She served in many state and national capacities and directed the ritualistic demonstrations at the National Conventions for many years. She held the post of state manager of Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia and was a frequent visitor to the local Grove.

Mrs. German, projects chairman, and her committee will hold a special meeting to plan projects for the coming year. A sunshine basket was prepared for Mrs. Lindner. ## How this 20-year-old partnership helps keep America strong

Since May 1941, America's banks have sold nearly 2 billion separate U.S. Savings Bonds at no cost to the Government or the purchasers. To give you some idea of the time involved: if you merely handed out that many Bonds at the rate of 1 a second for 10 hours a day, it would take you 152 years to reach the bottom of the pile.

Why have the nation's banks and bankers carried on this vast project of information, service, and issuance of U.S. Savings Bonds?

A winning team. For one reason, the Bond Program and the Banking business have grown together. Hand in hand, they've helped make Americans the saving-est people in the world.

Folks who save Bonds get the thrift habit. They soon learn other forms of saving and investment. They become better all-around bank customers. And Bond owners are better credit risks.

Another thing bankers are interested in: Bond dollars help keep America strong. A good reason for the banking business or any business to get behind the Bond program.

What you buy at the Bond Window. When your banker advises you to buy U.S. Savings Bonds, he's recommending an investment guaranteed to grow: $18.75 becomes $25 in 7 years, 9 months, and grows to $36.25 in another 10 years. They can be cashed in anytime with interest. And if they're lost or destroyed, the Treasury Department replaces them free.

Why not take this advice offered by the nation's bankers. Buy and hold U.S. Savings Bonds—for the things you want, and the Peace to enjoy them.

"America's Banks are proud to be part of the Bond Program,"

says Carl A. Binson, President, Valley National Bank, Phoenix, Arizona, and President, American Bankers Assn.

"We believe it is good for America, an economic stabilizer; it is good for the individual and the community; and it is good for banking. The promotion of Savings Bonds has helped to make savers out of non-savers, to revitalize the American tradition of thrift, and to build savings in all forms to record levels.

"The American Bankers Association congratulates the Nation and the public on the 20-year success story of the U.S. Savings Bonds Program, and pledges its vigorous continued support."

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why is it that the hotel maid is usually the forgotten woman? My wife works in a first-class hotel. You wouldn't believe the things supposedly high-toned people do.

They leave beer cans in dresser drawers, dishes and trays under the bed and liquor bottles under mattresses. They wipe their shoes with the shower curtain, spill nailpolish and ink on bedspreads and leave the tub filled with water because they're too lazy to turn a handle or pull a plug.

The maid is supposed to have the room in perfect order for the next guest. When people behave like pigs it takes a lot of extra time and work. They are the ones who never leave a tip. Is this right?—FRIED

DEAR FRIED: No it isn't right. Orderly guests should leave about 50 cents for a one or two night stay. Slobos should leave $1.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You often have letters from women who complain because of mother-in-law interference. Well, this is from a man whose father-in-law won't stay out of the picture.

I married Elsa three years ago. Her mother died when she was seven and her Dad has poured out all his affection and money on Elsa. From the start Elsa insisted on taking large amounts of money from him against my wishes so I decided the only way to make our marriage work was to move a few thousand miles away.

Her Dad came out to visit us even before the van unloaded the furniture. He stayed three weeks and when he left Elsa went back with him. She was "worn out" she said from moving. She stayed five weeks.

When she returned her father came back with her. I haven't been alone with my wife for so long I forgot what it's like. He Local 886. An election of officers pays our bills, gave her a car

Getty Lodges Complaint On Health Unit

The State's Attorney for Allegany County yesterday lodged a written complaint concerning working policies of the Allegany County Health Department.

James S. Getty, State's attorney, voiced his opinions in a letter to the Allegany County Commissioners: Dr. Perry Prather, director of the Maryland State Department of Health, and Louis E. Schmidt, attorney for the State Department of Health.

Getty's letter stated: "On Friday, January 20, my office requested the local Health Department to examine a 14-year-old girl in a morals case."

"At the time of the request the Health Department was conducting a clinic in the same building and a gynecologist was present. The Health Department, through Dr. Ton van Strein, informed the county investigator (Edwin R. Liliya) that this examination, by order of the State Department of Health, would have to be done privately and could not be made through the local health office."

"This meant a postponement of several days, setting up of an appointment with a private physician and an additional expense to the county, which in my considered opinion is inefficient, an imposition on private physicians and a needless expense to the county."

"I know of no valid reason why the county health officer or members of his staff cannot assist the State's Attorney's office in these matters."

"This cooperation did exist under the former medical examiner, the late Dr. Winter R. Frantz, and not once in my recollection was he ever asked to appear and testify in court. It is a service that I think paid public employees should render the state."

"My office has never refused to cooperate with the State Health Department in any matters of interest to your agency. The lack of reciprocity, however, leaves me with little sympathy for requests from the Health Department."

"If you have in fact ordered the local Health Department not to assist this office in such matters, I would appreciate being advised of this. If such an order has not been made, I would appreciate your advising me and the local health officer accordingly."

Dr. van Strien yesterday afternoon said he had "no comment" and was awaiting clarification from the central office of the State Department of Health.

He pointed out that he checked with Baltimore two years ago when a similar case arose, and that it was his understanding that the Health Department should not become engaged in medical-legal activities.

Council Approves Three Street Resurfacing Jobs

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved three streets for resurfacing under the 1961 Street Department program and introductory ordinances for three more projects were read.

Approved yesterday were Allegheny Street from Fayette Street to Cumberland Street; East Elder Street from Virginia Avenue to the C&O Canal; and Washington Street from Kiefer Avenue to Fayette.

Learnings will be held on three other resurfacing proposals Monday, February 6. They include Arch Street from Oldtown Road to Fifth Street; Buckingham Road from Greene Street to its end; and Greenway Avenue from Williams Street to Brookfield Avenue.

The streets are among 15 included in the 1961 resurfacing program of the Street Department. Commissioner John J. Long has said that they will be resurfaced if money is available but that by acting at the present time, his department will be ready to move in the spring if financial conditions warrant.

Fay Thompson, 206 Elder Street, appeared in connection with that proposal, questioning why property owners should pay when other area streets had been paved without cost to the citizen. He said the Elder Street surface was "put down" in WPA days and never had finished. City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said he had no comment on Thompson's statements but added the street does need surfacing.

Appearing on the Washington Street proposal were Bernard Whitacre, 803 Washington, Mrs. C. P. Jolley, corner of Fayette and Washington Streets; John Bestwick, 801 Washington Street; and James W. Simpson, 805 Washington Street.

In answer to questions about whether partial repairs could be made and the possibility of adding to an already serious traffic and safety problem, Nuzum said the street is down to base which is being worn away by traffic and weather, and a seal and surface are badly needed. He said for safety sake, a rough asphalt and chip mixture could be placed on the new surface if deemed necessary.

On another street matter, Nuzum submitted a report on the cost of resurfacing Frederick Street from Decatur Street, 2,230 feet north.

Total cost of the project was $12,819.20 which is shared 50-50 by the property owner and city or $6,409.60 each. That means a cost of $1.58 a lineal foot to the property owner.

Mrs. Jesse H. Weaver, 721 Glenmore Street, appeared to ask that an alley be paved and drainage installed.

Fay Thompson commended Commissioner Long for prompt action in correcting an alley condition between Potomac and Offutt streets. Long said the prompt action was due to the men in his department and Superintendent Ray Valentine.

Interviews For Job Set

Representatives of the office of Albert Ward of the Maryland State Tax Commission will be at the Allegany County Court House February 9 to interview applicants for the position of county assessor.

Ward, in a letter to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, said the interviews will begin at 11:30 a. m. Thursday, February 9, in the office of J. H. Stittely supervisor of assessments.

The assessor vacancy in the county tax division occurred as the result of the death of Somerville Nicholson, who was supervisor of assessments at the time of his death, and the promotion of Stittely to that position.

Arrangements for the interviews of the 14 applicants for the job were made by the State Tax Division.

Local sources said that in all probability, the successful applicant will begin his duties with the county March 1.

Four of the 14 applicants seeking the post have received endorsement of the Democratic State Central Committee of Allegany County.

They are William Kelly of Lonaconing; John Mullaney, Paul G. Stakem and Alfred Hutter, all of Cumberland.

Snow Removal Ordinances Tabled Again

The Mayor and Council tabled for another week ordinances on street and sidewalk snow removal yesterday but some members voiced praise for the Street Department job and public cooperation in clearing of streets after last Thursday night's deluge.

Both ordinances were tabled on motion of Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming who said he would like to see some changes in the proposed new law. He said he was not agreeable to the Police Department being called out in the early morning hours to tag or have cars towed away.

It was Fleming who said the Street Department did a "wonderful job" in the most recent snowfall and added the appeal by Commissioner John J. Long to keep main arteries free of parked cars brought public cooperation.

Fleming said he felt that rather than pass such a stringent snow removal ordinance at this time, the people should be put through an indoctrination or education period for moving cars off streets in snow emergencies.

Again, he said Long's department and men should be congratulated along with the public and then added that his department cooperated and was happy to do so.

Long told council that the snow removal ordinance is needed and suggested members of council tell City Attorney William R. Carscaden what changes are desired so it can be approved. Long, too, praised the cooperation of the public in the snow removal last weekend and said "It shows what they will do when called upon."

Mayor J. Edwin Keech agreed that Carscaden should be apprised of council's thoughts on the ordinance and said that it is needed. He also praised the cooperation of the public and Police Department with the Street Department.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK NEW YORK (UPI) — You can multiply 5,132,437,201 by 432,736,502,785—in 70 seconds—once you master the shorthand system of multiplication.

Ann Cutler, co-author of a new book about instant math, watched an 11-year-old boy solve such a problem in seconds four years ago in Zurich, Switzerland.

She spent months subsequently investigating the off-beat approach to figures. Her sleuthing convinced her: The Trachtenberg system can make a mathematical genius of any one who can count to 11.

Miss Cutler said educational experts believe that in the next decade, the system developed by the late Jakob Trachtenberg will revolutionize the teaching of arithmetic.

"It shortens mathematical computation time by 80 per cent and is 99 per cent effective," Miss Cutler said.

"The system, easily learned, can be of immeasurable help to anyone who uses figures—from the housewife adding up her bills, to the businessman balancing his bank statements, to the woman counting calories."

The school in which Miss Cutler first witnessed the results of instant math was the Trachtenberg Institute of Mathematics. It's called "the school of geniuses."

"The nickname," she said, "refers to the mathematical abilities of the youngsters who have taken the course. Most, upon entry, are considered mathematical failures, many having flunked math three or four times."

The system accomplishing this miracle employs arithmetical procedures radically different from conventional methods. Miss Cutler said, for example, that no multiplication tables and no long division as currently known are used when figuring the shorthand way.

She said Trachtenberg developed most of the system mentally while a concentration camp inmate for seven years.

Miss Cutler said she and a mathematician, Rudolph McShane had to translate a Trachtenberg manuscript before adapting the system for presentation in the book "The Trachtenberg Speed System of Basic Mathematics."

Miss Cutler, a native of Huntington, W. Va., is a graduate of Marshall College.

Magistrates Are Trustees

Two trial magistrates from Allegany County Sunday were elected trustees of the Trial Magistrates Association of Maryland.

Named to the state position at a meeting in Baltimore were F. Allan Weatherhol, of Cumberland and Thomas Barton of Cresaptown.

The local magistrates said the association Sunday voted to throw its weight behind bills that would establish county juvenile traffic courts, allow county magistrates to put defendants on probation before verdict, and authorize magistrates to change their verdicts.

The association's legislative committee reported that bills for all three proposals will be brought before the current session of the general assembly.

Simon Schonfield, chairman of the legislative committee, said the establishment of juvenile traffic courts would be especially useful to county magistrates. He said such courts could prevent first-offenders from having an immediate police record. Baltimore city is the only administrative unit in Maryland that now has such courts.

About 135 persons attended the annual meeting of the association during the weekend.

Guesswork And The Budget

It takes two to make a budget proposed by the ex-President was a one-department offering. President Kennedy will propose and Congress will dispose.

Being of the same party, there may be less divergence of purpose during the Kennedy years than was the case recently. But that doesn't necessarily follow, especially if Presidential projects go beyond what is sometimes humorously referred to as the conservatism of Congress.

The Eisenhower budget of $80.9 billion was his highest—an augury. It is widely predicted there will never again be an $80 billion budget. Mr. Eisenhower's lowest budget was $64 billion. This one is $17 billion higher.

The Kennedy spending urge is even stronger. There will be a Kennedy budget in all probability of close to $100 billion before his tenure has ended, even if he serves only one term.

Nearly all budgets are presented as "in balance," which is mere guesswork. No one knows whether a strengthening economy is going to yield a lot of revenue or an ebbing prosperity will shrink tax receipts.

But everyone knows that international signals are flying which call for careful fiscal policies in protection of the nation's basic monetary structure.

These Days

The Red China Policy

Anyone who knows the character of President Kennedy must assume that he will have the final voice in the conduct of the foreign policy of this country. He has organized his foreign affairs team in such a manner that obviously he will be forced to act as arbiter among Dean Rusk, Adlai Stevenson and Chester Bowles and it will test his own diplomatic capacity to keep this team rolling in a single direction without prima donnaish overtures.

Adlai Stevenson has already said his piece concerning China. His statement produced many confusing headlines, which shows what happens when a clear statement of fact is not said with clarity. Stevenson's statement of fact, in effect, was that it is probable that the United States will be voted down in the United Nations in the near future and that Red China will be admitted to the United Nations. He did not say that he favored such a development.

Chester Bowles spoke more clearly and succinctly. He is opposed to Red China's entrance into the United Nations and he is in favor of Formosa and of the holding of the islands of Quemoy and Matsu. His only qualification, when he testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was that the United States should not withdraw from the United Nations should Red China be admitted.

It is significant that the China question loomed so large in the discussions before the Foreign Relations Committee. It indicated to the Kennedy Administration that this is not an issue that can be passed over lightly by the State Department and that public opinion in this country was still, if not more so, anti-Peking.

The other side of the coin is that with the shift in the balance of power in the General Assembly of the United Nations, the United States may not long be in control of the situation there. The Afro-Asian group, if it holds together, and the South American group, which used to vote with us solidly but no longer does, can produce a sufficient vote to embarrass the United States by voting with the Soviet bloc.

Even if the Western Europeans were of one mind on the subject of not admitting Red China to the United Nations, which they are not, the actual decision on any question in the General Assembly of the United Nations could numerically go against us.

This is a realistic situation which requires a realistic decision. We cannot hope to hold these people to our side as long as they read in the newspapers that peoples of their race and color are regarded as inferior savages because of race and color. We cannot say to them, "Vote for the United States in the United Nations," and then have incidents in this country which prove to them that they are despised here. It is as simple as that.

We could, of course, get out of the United Nations altogether and let the Afro-Asians run the place, inviting Chou En-lai to come from Peking to dictate what should be done. But then, our problem would be: where would we get allies or have bases should Soviet Russia make a fighting war on the United States?

These are questions that are not in the distant future or the long run. They will come up at the next session of the General Assembly in March and they will arise in the Assembly after that.

Red China is conducting a world-wide propaganda of hate against the United States. It is using all its weapons to force a war between the United States and Soviet Russia in the wily belief that Peking can take advantage of both countries during such a war. Its theories are based on the strategic adage, "Let you and him fight."

We are now engaged in a battle of wits against Red China, in a battle which we have been losing because we have no effective propagandistic weapons to use against Red China among those who now hold the votes in the United Nations—the non-white peoples.

There are many in this country who refuse to recognize our dangerous dilemma. They are so moved emotionally by local situations that they cannot see the peril of their attitude. The pity of it is that the China issue may be the springboard for war.

Kennedy's Address Expressed Basic U.S. Policy

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Just why did almost everybody here approve of President Kennedy's inaugural address—Republicans and Democrats, conservatives and nonconservatives alike?

The answer is: because the speech expressed eloquently, forcefully, clearly the foreign policy of the United States—its traditional principles for decades past.

But while America was thrilled by the speech, the Soviet Union censored it. It was a grim reminder of the problem faced by the new President. For he is being prevented—even as was his predecessor—from talking to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain. Here are three passages which a Moscow dispatch by the United Press International tells us did not appear in the press of the Soviet Union:

"Let every nation know, whether it wishes us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe to assure the survival and success of liberty."

"To those new states whom we welcome to the ranks of the free, we pledge our word that one form of colonial control shall not have passed away merely to be replaced by a far more iron tyranny."

"And let every other power know that this hemisphere intends to remain the master of its own house."

Presumably the Soviets didn't want to print anything that runs contrary to what their Premier said recently in his professed opposition to "colonialism" or to be reminded by implication that there are several states now under Soviet domination which constitute a new form of "colonialism."

Presumably also the Soviet government didn't want its people to know of the resoluteness of the new President of the United States when he warns the Soviet Union that the American people will be asked to "pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe to assure the survival and success of liberty."

For this timely warning was but another way of saying that America will negotiate, is not afraid to negotiate, and is eager to "begin anew the quest for peace" but that this must not be construed as a bid for peace-at-any-price. Although the Soviet newspapers didn't print the speech in full—and it was very short—Mr. Khrushchev and the others in the Kremlin undoubtedly read every word of it.

There were only a few sentences in the inaugural address which could be construed as relating to domestic policy, and it may also be asked: why did these please all sides, or at least the conservatives? The answer is to be found in this memorable sentence:

"And so, my fellow Americans: ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

This places an emphasis on self-reliance and is the true meaning of the opposition to the "welfare state." This has been too often distorted as opposition to all reforms and to all progress, when the truth is no sensible conservative ever opposes direct intervention by the government in the economic life of the country in an emergency or when all other means have failed—as when private enterprise cannot finance a project essential to the general welfare. Incidentally, Mr. Kennedy's pronouncement parallels the plea for a responsible individualism proclaimed in an admirable statement by the Catholic bishops of America in their annual meeting here on November 20.

The first few days of the new administration have already brought out some interesting differences from the preceding administration. President Kennedy is an experienced politician. He knows his politics from firsthand contact with the organizations and its leaders. Mr. Eisenhower never knew politics. He was brought up in a different school of thought. The country rather liked his nonpolitical approach but, unfortunately, he lost many a scuffle over legislation and public policies because he was not a politician.

President Kennedy has just chosen as chairman of the Democratic National Committee a very capable politician—John M. Bailey, Democratic state chairman of Connecticut for the last 14 years. He is the man who sponsored the famous memorandum used at the 1952 and 1956 Democratic National conventions by the Kennedy managers to prove to the delegates that the Catholic vote can be a big asset to a presidential nominee if he is a Roman Catholic. It gave the facts and figures showing how the Catholic vote could be influenced and mobilized. Mr. Bailey has been in politics for 30 years.

President Kennedy will constantly keep his eye on the political weathervane. He didn't miss a trick during the inaugural parade as he waved and smiled to the various governors and leaders from those Southern states which supported him. His first speech to the Democratic National Committee last Saturday indicated that Mr. Kennedy will be leader of his party in fact as well as in name. Active politics in the White House is somewhat reminiscent of the days of Harry Truman or—if a Republican parallel is needed—the days of Theodore Roosevelt.

Many Americans Contribute Funds To Start 'Free University Of Cuba'

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—In keeping with President Kennedy's inaugural appeal "Don't ask America what she can do for you, instead ask what you can do for America," a lot of people have written me, sending small donations to build a "Free University of Cuba."

They are very inspiring letters, and come from all sorts of people, ranging from Emilio Menendez, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Cuba to Congressman Dante Fascell of Miami and Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota. Milt Andrus of the Boca Grande Hotel in Boca Grande even offered the facilities of his hotel, now being reconstructed from hurricane damage, as temporary quarters to house the university.

Behind the idea of a Free University of Cuba is, first, the fact that you can't defeat the name-calling of Castroism by calling names in return. You can defeat him by such things as restoring the freedoms of Cuban culture and learning as typified by the once-free University of Havana now being policed by Castro's intelligence men.

In Latin America, universities enjoy a special sovereignty. They are exempt from the police, considered sanctuaries of intellectual and political freedom. It was from the University of Havana that Castro and his student rebels staged their first demonstrations against President Batista. Batista tolerated them. Castro, in contrast, has put the university under police rule. That's why so many professors have fled to the United States, are now waiters, mechanics, and bellhops in Miami.

The second idea behind the Free University of Cuba would be to build a permanent University of the Americas. Castroism will not last forever, and the professors now in exile eventually will go back to the University of Havana. However, the temporary monument to educational freedom could continue as a permanent educational monument to better understanding between the Americas—something neglected of late. Farsighted Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas long ago saw the importance of student exchange and has persuaded Congress to put up a modest amount of money for it. A University of the Americas could attract more and more students from North and South America and cement greater and firmer bonds between our neighbors.

Good-will trips by Presidents and Vice Presidents may arouse friendship enthusiasm for a few days, but a university to which Latin nations contribute professors as well as students can build good will permanently.

Oil Influences The Senate

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri is both pleasant and effective, does not get mad easily. But the other day in the secrecy of the Senate Democratic caucus, he told of an incident which had once made his blood boil.

Symington told the story to illustrate something which has been burning up other Senators—the jockeying for position on committees by Vice President Lyndon Johnson for the purpose of protecting Texas oil.

Oil and all that goes with it—campaign contributions and the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance—have been the unseen but very potent factor in the appointment of key committee posts and the grumbling over oil attorney John B. Connally, Johnson's likeable ex-assistant, as Secretary of the Navy.

What Symington told his fellow Democrats was that two years ago he had wanted to be appointed to a certain committee and cleared it with the chairman, who wanted him. He found he had the seniority to be appointed and fully expected to get it. Then he was asked how he stood on a certain bill, and replied frankly that he was opposed to it.

Thereafter, Symington said, he was told by the "leadership" that he could not serve on two major committees at one time and was denied the appointment he wanted.

Senators who listened to Symington knew that he was talking about the Appropriations Committee, and that the bill he had been asked about dealt with the oil depletion allowance. "The leadership" of course referred to Sen. Lyndon Johnson, now Vice President.

More Oil Influence

Another significant committee switch took place last week, also because of oil. Senator Fulbright suddenly stepped down from ranking member of the Banking and Currency Committee and took a nonranking position on the Senate Finance Committee.

This might not seem important to most people, but to insiders it meant one thing—oil.

Few Senators ever relinquish a No. 2 spot on an important committee like Banking and Currency without reason. The Finance Committee, however, is the committee which passes on the oil depletion allowance. And Sen. Bill Proxmire of Wisconsin, a forthright battler against the oil depletion allowance, wanted a spot on the Finance Committee. He had tried to get it for more than two years, and under usual Senate custom was entitled to it.

The only way he could be blocked was by having a very senior Senator ask for it. Fulbright has that seniority. Furthermore, he is an oil Senator. He is a sort of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Senator who occupies the lofty position of chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee but also goes down the line for oil. He was author of the Fulbright-Harris natural gas bill. So Vice President Johnson arranged with Fulbright to step down from his key spot on Banking and Currency to a very junior spot on the Finance Committee—where he can help protect the oil depletion allowance.

This blocked Proxmire who had sworn to close oil loopholes in the tax laws.

So operates oil politics on Capitol Hill. (Copyright 1961, By The Bell Syndicate)

It's Our Pasture

By John Crosby

The Federal Communications Commission has approved a three-year, ten million dollar test for pay television in Hartford, Conn. so pay TV marches one step closer to being the law and the custom of the land.

But, if this is what lies ahead—and I believe that it is—I most emphatically think some coherent philosophy about pay television should be arrived at. What should pay TV do that free—or advertiser-paid-for—television doesn't do? Should we be forced to pay for something that we already get free? Why?

I have yet to hear one clear explanation of this from the advocates of pay TV, including Zenith Radio Corp., one of those authorized to go ahead with the Hartford experiment. Zenith has been in the vanguard of those fighting for pay TV. For years it has flooded all newspaper offices with mile-long telegrams at every possible opportunity, arguing the superiority of its system to the commercial television we now have. Not once do I remember Zenith telling me what obligation it owed to me for charging me for the privilege of using my air lanes.

Let us all be clear on that point right now. The air is ours—yours, mine, and Joe Doakes' over there. It does not belong to NBC, ABC, or CBS, or "The Chicago Tribune"—though they frequently act as if it does. It belongs to you and me. You and I have authorized NBC and CBS and "The Chicago Tribune" (which owns radio and television stations and has insisted it should own its frequency) to use the air for our enrichment, our entertainment, our education, and for the dissemination of information that we need.

Or, to put it another way, we let the networks and others graze for in our pasture but in return, they are expected to provide some services. Well, they do. I think there are grave shortcomings in the range of services and in the quality of services and especially in the grievous narrowness of its emphasis on entertainment, of its concentration on the lowest tastes of the lowest common denominator of the public. Nevertheless, the networks and the others have given us operas, plays, Perry Como, Huntley-Brinkley, Groucho Marx, and a lot of other things—all for nothing. It's been a reasonably fair exchange. They have made bloody fortunes using our pasture; but we've had the long winter evenings filled with songs and jokes and news.

Now, sir, Along comes Zenith with a new proposal. It wants to use our pasture under new terms. Zenith says it can raise on the lower fifty a better crop of news and entertainment and culture than can free television. For economic reasons and for various other reasons which might be summed up in the single phrase Madison Avenue, I think maybe they can. I think that within a very short time, Madison Avenue can no longer afford to pay television's bills. Already advertisers are beginning to want out of this insatiable monster. No matter how big the audience, there is a limit to what the advertiser can pay—and that limit is being rapidly approached.

Economics and historic forces are pushing us into Zenith's hands. But let us get the most out of this. Zenith says it will give us first run movies, plays, sporting events, not available on free television. But we must pay.

I have a big sigh and say: Okay, I'll pay. But how much are you going to pay, Zenith, for the use of my pasture? (Actually, it's yours and mine but let me do the bargaining here.) Zenith—you mark my words—will rear back in horror and say: "But you been letting NBC, CBS, ABC, and the others graze down there for years for nothing?" At this point, I suck a bit on a straw and observe: "But they give me Perry Como for nothing? You gonna charge me to listen to Perry Como. So I'm gonna charge you for use of the lower forty."

Make no mistake about it: enormous fortunes are going to be made in pay TV when it gets here. Already the fortunes made by entrepreneurs in free television dwarf the fortunes made in early silent pictures—and all with the use of our facilities.

Consequently, we should hesitate not at all in driving the hardest bargain we can drive for use of the air waves. (If pay TV is done over private wires it's something else.) I think 50 per cent of the take is a fair rental for use of the theater. We must never think of this as a tax. It's not a tax. It's rent for use of the public domain. I don't think we should ever sell those frequencies outright. I don't think we should give them away. We should rent them.

But more than that, we should regulate the use far more closely than we have in the past. It's our air. We should regulate, to start out with, the rates that may be charged. Already, I think the proposed rates are far, far too high. Admission charges of $1, $2, $3 are airily proposed. Why? Even at nickels and dimes the fortunes to be made on pay TV will be enormous.

I think the F. C. C. should not only be empowered but required to pass on rates charged the poor public for the use of the air waves just as the I. C. C. passes on rail rates. More than that, I think you and I through the F. C. C. (or some other agency) ought to demand that Zenith maintain a certain quality of service just as the railroads are required to serve certain points.

Some time ago, recalls critic George Oppenheimer, "a ham actor decided to revive 'The Jest' with himself in the role created by John Barrymore. Unfortunately, the ham weighed about 210 pounds on the hoof, and when he donned the tights called for by the part, he was quite a sight, fore and aft."

"When he strode upon the stage for the opening performance, and struck the typical Barrymore pose, there was a moment of deep silence in the theatre. That was interrupted by an irreverent soul in the balcony. 'My God!' he shouted, 'It's Ethel!'"

A letter calling attention to an overdue bill must be good to be read. It must be more than good to spur delinquents into reaching for their check books. Here's one that produced really spectacular results for an upstate dairy products company.

"Dear Sir: It has been said that a man who squeezes a dollar, never squeezes his wife. In looking over your account, it occurs to us that your wife cannot be getting the attention she deserves. Respy, etc., etc."

TUBERCULOSIS TEST

J. E. J. writes: Is it better for a person to have a negative or a positive tuberculin skin test result?

REPLY

A negative test means there has been no contact with the tuberculous bacilli and, in this respect, is preferred theoretically. But those who have a positive result and have survived the bout with the micro-organisms are fatter ahead; they met and conquered the enemy. In general, a positive test is better, especially in adulthood.

W. Va. Sales Tax Seen Meeting With Disfavor

Delegates Report Broad Reaction

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—"I got more telephone calls than I've ever gotten. Not one person that called me favored the income tax," Del. Harry L. Burch, R-Ohio, said Monday.

He was reporting on the reaction he encountered in his home county over the weekend to Democratic Gov. W. W. Barron's recommendation that the legislature enact a State personal income tax.

Not all legislators reported such one-sided sentiment. But the consensus of comments by senators and delegates indicated the proposal was looked upon with disfavor by the majority who contacted them on their first weekend trips home since Barron made his recommendation.

Sen. Arch W. Riley, D-Ohio, said his constituents were against the income tax mainly because "they were afraid of what it might grow into."

Veteran Sen. Ward Wylie, D-Wyoming, said "the sentiment appeared 20 to 1 against it. People seemed to feel that they are loaded already with about as much as they now can pay."

The Senate and House met only briefly Monday after the weekend recess, no legislation having yet come to the floor from committee. The major committees of both chambers met after adjournment.

Barron's legislative program calls for $17.5 million in new revenue for economic development, roads, schools and other State improvements.

The keystone is the income tax recommendation. Barron has not revealed the details and the bill has not yet been introduced.

It is expected to account for $15 million of the proposed new revenue and to call for a State income tax amounting to 6 per cent of the amount of federal income tax paid by each taxpayer.

This is the firm of architects who designed the new armory nearing completion on Potomac State College Campus.

The Farmers and Merchants Bank first opened for business on September 11, 1911 at 105 Armstrong Street. When they were ready to erect a new building, the Peoples Bank building was offered to them at an attractive price, and in 1925 the move was made to the quarters now occupied by the bank. The bank plans to be located in its new building later this year in observance of the 50th anniversary of its founding.

Arnold Palmer Is Voted Professional Athlete Of Year

Latrobe Golf Pro Receives $10,000 Belt

Floyd Patterson
2nd, Van Brocklin
3d In Hickok Poll

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, 31-year-old Latrobe, Pa. golfer, Monday was named winner of the 11th annual S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" poll.

Palmer, all-time money winning champion whose 1960 triumphs included the Masters and National Open, eight victories, was the second golfer to win the $10,000 diamond-studded, gold-buckled belt. He won by a margin of more than 100 points in the voting of sports writers and sportscasters.

Patterson Is Second

Floyd Patterson, first man to win back the heavyweight boxing title, was second, followed closely by Norm Van Brocklin, who led the Philadelphia Eagles to the National Football League championship.

Palmer received 73 first place votes of the 143 cast and a total of 302 points on a 3-2-1 basis. Patterson polled 35 firsts and 196 points and Van Brocklin drew 19 firsts and 176 points.

Bill Mazeroski, whose home run won the World Series for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was fourth with 53 points. Then came two pitchers, Vern Law of Pittsburgh and Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, tied for fifth place, each had 35 points.

Palmer was proclaimed the winner at the annual dinner of the Rochester Press and Radio Club. The entire proceeds of the dinner went to charity.

Previous Winners

Previous winners included: Phil Rizzuto, baseball, 1950; Alie Reynolds, baseball, 1951; Rocky Marciano, boxing, 1952; Ben Hogan, golf, 1953; Willie Mays, baseball, 1954; Otto Graham, football, 1955; Mickey Mantle, baseball, 1956; Carmen Basilio, boxing, 1957; Bob Turley, baseball, 1958; Ingemar Johansson, boxing, 1959.

Ruth's Homer Record Safe, Maris Opines

High Of 60 To Stand
Despite Extra Games

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Roger Maris, the most valuable player in the American League in 1960, thinks Babe Ruth's home run record is safe despite the eight extra games on the schedule this year.

"Nobody will touch it," said the New York Yankee outfielder, a guest at the Rochester Press and Radio Club dinner. "Look up the records and you'll see that it's a rare year when anybody hits 50 homers, let alone 60 as Ruth hit in 1927."

Maris was right, too. Since 1938 when Hank Greenberg hit 58, the only man to hit 50 or more in the American League was Mickey Mantle who got 52 in 1956. In the National League Ralph Kiner topped 50 twice in that period (1947 and 1949). Johnny Mize also did it in 1947 and Willie Mays in 1955.

The American League will play 162 games this year, instead of the normal 154 because of the addition of new franchises in Washington and Los Angeles.

"The pitching is so tough and the defense is so good that you are doing pretty good if you hit .280 and get your share of home runs," said Maris who batted .283, hit 39 homers (second to Mantle) and led the league with 112 runs batted in.

Game Is Canceled

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Duquesne University announced Monday it will not reschedule a postponed basketball game with Villanova because of previous commitments by the Wildcats.

In that hair-raiser, Coach Nick Scallion's Rebels outscored the Campers 10-4 in the extra period after the regulation game ended in a 60-60 deadlock.

The Rebs have won 12 of 13 games and their only defeat came at the hands of unbeaten Martinsburg (45-41) which is 9-0 to date. Allegheny has won eight and lost three.

Allegheny and South High will be meeting for the eighth time since the Rebels came upon the basketball scene in 1957. The Campers hold a 4-3 edge in victories.

Bowie Racing Card Canceled, Program Resumes Wednesday

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Bowie Race Course ran into its usual winter troubles Monday—cancellation of the day's card.

This would have been the second day of a 48-day meet with the earliest opening in Maryland history.

Despite a foot of snow still around from last Thursday's blizzard, Bowie started Saturday on schedule. There were 9,281 fans on hand in the glass-enclosed stands to watch what turned out to be a grand day for long shot players.

However, when more snow started to fall Monday and roads to Bowie began to ice over, officials decided to call off the $5,000 Federal Purse allowance race and eight others on the Monday card.

The events could have been rescheduled for Tuesday, under a 1961 schedule that leaves Tuesdays as dark days just for the purpose of taking care of postponements.

But Bowie President Donald Lillis decided to take no chances. A new card will be drawn up for Wednesday, and the last day will be made up Jan. 31.

the GREATEST! by Walter Johns

Ty Cobb... The "Georgia Peach".

A FIERCE desire to be best, a great competitive spirit and the coordination of an All-American made Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the "Georgia Peach", the GREATEST baseball player in the history of the game.

Cobb, who became a millionaire through his baseball pay and investments, was one of the most loved, hated and controversial figures in the game for the 20-odd years he dominated the majors with his hitting, running and fighting.

As one biographer has said, Cobb could out-hit, out-run and out-fight anybody in the game and as for the rough stuff this son of a Georgia state senator fought not only the fans, but his own teammates as well.

And, when he retired in 1928, at the age of 41, he still was a feared performer who had hit 357 the year before. When he quit he told one and all he was quitting because of his legs, but that his great batting eye was still sharp. And he had proved it over the years.

BORN AT Narrows, Ga., December 18, 1886, Cobb became a professional baseball player at 18, and his fine year with Augusta of the South Atlantic league attracted the Detroit club, which purchased him for $700.

From then on, the name of Cobb was the biggest in all baseball, and when he finally quit stealing bases and banging out hits, his all-time batting percentage stood at .367, his fielding percentage at .959 and his stolen base mark at 892, including 96 stolen in one season, 1915.

A NERVOUS batter at the plate, but one who only hit the pitch he liked, Cobb was a whirling dervish on the base paths and many's the times he came in with spikes high. Many fistic encounters dotted his career, which included managing the Tigers and finally winding up as an outfielder with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Twice in his career he went over the 400 mark in batting, getting .420 in 1911 and .410 in 1912 in a day when there was no rabbit ball to help him. He led the American league in batting 12 times, nine times in a row.

Cobb early invested wisely in a soft drink concern and other industries. He commanded a $70,000 salary in the days when this was an astounding figure.

Married twice, he had five children. Today he still shows an interest in baseball as he confines his activity to playing golf and taking it easy.

North Carolina Wants To Quit Cage Tourney

Would Withdraw From ACC Event

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The University of North Carolina asked the Atlantic Coast Conference Monday for permission to withdraw from the annual league basketball tournament in March.

The request was included in a telegram from UNC Chancellor William B. Aycock to conference Commissioner James H. Weaver. The university's basketball team was handed a one-year probationary sentence recently by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and thus became ineligible for the NCAA basketball playoffs.

The winner of the ACC tournament, scheduled for March 2-4 at Raleigh, advances to the NCAA eliminations. If North Carolina were to win the ACC crown this year, the second place team would enter the national playoffs.

Weaver could not be reached for comment. The decision on the North Carolina request lies with the conference Executive Committee composed of O. K. Cornwell of UNC, Brooks James of North Carolina State and Jim Penny of the University of South Carolina.

In announcing the action, Aycock said it was taken "in the interest of fair play to the other teams in this conference."

The NCAA placed North Carolina on probation for recruiting irregularities.

Eagles Name Skorich As Head Coach

Assistant Picked To Succeed Shaw

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles, champions of the National Football League, didn't go far Monday to pick a new head football coach—tapping assistant Nick Skorich for the job vacated by the veteran Bob Shaw.

Skorich, who is 39, was line coach under Shaw for the past two seasons. Before that he helped coach the NFL's Pittsburgh Steelers, from 1954-57, and in 1958 was with the Green Bay Packers.

Skorich, as long predicted, got the post the Eagles refused to give to Norm Van Brocklin, the star quarterback who almost single-handedly passed Philadelphia to its NFL title. The Eagle bosses apparently felt Van Brocklin lacked pro coaching experience, a commodity Skorich has plenty of.

Van Brocklin angrily accused Philadelphia management of renegeing on a promise that he'd succeed Shaw when the Californian decided to quit.

Last week Van Brocklin was named head coach of the new Minnesota Vikings in the NFL. Skorich supposedly was sought for that job and turned it down.

The Eagles gave Skorich a three-year contract, reportedly worth about $25,000 annually. He's the 11th Philadelphia coach since the club was founded in 1933 by the late Bert Bell, first NFL commissioner.

Mitchell Is Named BYU Football Coach

PROVO, Utah (UPI)—Hal Mitchell, a member of the Brigham Young University coaching staff, Monday was named head football coach at BYU succeeding Tally Stevens.

Mitchell, 30, a former UCLA player, joined the BYU staff when Stevens became head coach after the resignation of Hal Kopp following the close of the 1958 season.

Stevens was fired earlier this month when school president Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson announced Stevens' contract would not be renewed.

Mitchell, who served as BYU freshman coach, coached at William S. Hart High School in Newhall, Calif., before coming to the Provo, Utah, school.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—After milling around in a slow market, most grains finished higher on late commission buying Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was up  $\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; corn up  $\frac{1}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; oats unchanged to off  $\frac{1}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; and soybeans up  $\frac{1}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ .

Covering against export sales and talk of possible higher price supports under the new administration brought speculative buying into the market late Monday.

Soybeans, which opened strong and soon weakened on profit-taking, rebounded to close as much as  $\frac{1}{4}$  cent higher. Oats lagged in very slow trading.

Nearly wheat firmed on export and commercial buying. Commission houses sold March and May.

Spain reportedly bought 2,240,000 bushels of hard and spring wheats from Colombia took 448,000 bushels. Agriculture Department officials raised their estimate of the season's wheat and flour exports by 25 million bushels, bringing the total to 375 million.

Spreaders were active in corn. July was bought against sales of December at  $\frac{3}{4}$  cents difference. Spot corn firmed.

Rye found support in a higher Winnipeg market. Commission houses bought.

Soybean oil, which furnished the initial support to soybeans, was unable to hold an early advance. Meal futures were also lower. Drummed lands firmed on higher spot prices and a firm hog market.

Outside markets were mostly steady.

The U. S. visible supply of wheat decreased by 2,147,000 bushels to leave 457,868,000, according to Board of Trade statistics. Corn stocks fell 2,471,000 to 132,555,000. Wheat and flour exports by 25 million bushels, bringing the total to 375 million.

Barley supplies increased 127,000 to 16,132,000 and soybeans 381,000 to 46,207,000 bushels.

Assembly Gets Plan To Split Big Counties

Reapportionment Commission Asked

By HERB THOMPSON
ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A resolution which could mean the end of reapportionment plans at this session of the General Assembly was introduced in the Maryland Senate Monday night.

Sponsored by 14 senators, enough to defeat any reapportionment bill that might come before the 29-member Senate, it calls for creating additional counties out of large ones to provide more seats in the legislature for populous areas.

The resolution was drafted by Sen. Louis N. Phipps, D-Anne Arundel, who advocated the plan last summer as the answer to reapportionment problems. It calls on Gov. Tawes to name a committee of eight senators, eight delegates and one non-legislator to a commission which would study the feasibility of the plan and report back to "either the 1961 or 1962 sessions of the General Assembly of Maryland."

Knockout Blow

Phipps acknowledges that passage of the joint resolution by the Senate (only 15 votes required) would virtually knock out any other reapportionment move in that chamber. Eighteen votes would be necessary to pass any proposed constitutional amendment to increase the number of seats in the assembly.

Asks New Approach

But the Anne Arundel senator says he sincerely believes it is the answer to the problem of giving larger counties more representation. He says he would be perfectly willing for his county to be divided to create a new county.

In House action Monday night, a bill aimed at keeping obscene literature out of the hands of children under 18 was passed and sent to the Senate.

The measure is an attempt to remove from a similar 1960 measure provisions which have been found unconstitutional by the courts, but backers acknowledge that the new bill also probably faces a court test on similar grounds.

The Senate passed and sent to the House bills including one which would authorize only lawyers to practice before the State Tax Court.

Anne Arundel is one of the four larger counties standing to gain seats from any reapportionment plan. Others are Baltimore, Montgomery and Prince Georges.

"We've tried everything else and it hasn't passed," Phipps said. "Why not take a fresh approach?"

Sen. Frederick C. Malkus, D-Dorchester, chairman of the Judicial Proceedings Committee and an ardent foe of reapportionment, was among the co-sponsors joining Phipps and urging other senators to sign up.

"If we're going to have reapportionment, this would be the way to do it," Malkus said. "No one county would get so politically powerful it could jeopardize another."

Bowling Green Firemen Get Annual Fire Report

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Department answered 34 first calls and three mutual aid calls during 1960, Allan Deffinbaugh, fire chief, reported to the company in the annual report.

The chief pointed out the false alarms, most of which were due to persons dialing the wrong telephone number. Of this number, the alarms were not sounded on 47 calls.

Chief Deffinbaugh also reported there was no damage caused by fire during the year until December 26 when a trailer valued at $6,000 was destroyed.

A breakdown of the fires during the year shows 13 dwellings, two mutual aid in dwellings, five motor vehicle, seven forest and field

1961 March Of Dimes Will Aid Fight On Arthritis

The 1961 March of Dimes will bring new hope for millions of Americans afflicted with one of mankind's oldest enemies — arthritis, said Frederick J. Hill Jr., Allegheny County director of the fund-raising campaign being held this month.

"The cause and cure of arthritis and similar diseases are still unknown, but some of the answers may be forthcoming as the result of the March of Dimes-supported program of the National Foundation," he said.

A number of National Foundation chapters with sufficient funds after meeting their polio obligations are also paying for patient aid to children under 19 who are afflicted with rheumatoid arthritis or with certain crippling birth defects.

"The National Foundation," he said, "will be able to do even more in its fight to prevent crippling diseases if public contributions to the 1961 drive are generous enough to permit further expansions if its program of research, patient aid and professional education."

This evening a dance will be held at the home of Tonkaway Tribe 120, Improved Order of Redmen, at 25 Bedford Street, according to Mr. Hill, who said the proceeds will be turned over to the drive fund.

Music for dancing which begins at 9 p. m. will be furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Rhythm. Local talent will present a program. Among the performers will be Kathy and Diane Ritchie. The public is invited.

Textile Union Election Opens

Balloting in the annual election of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO, began yesterday at the union hall and at the Amcelle plant.

Participation in the election yesterday was reported good but off a bit because of the weather.

The last ballots will be cast Wednesday at 11 p. m. in the Personnel Department quarters at the plant.

Four members are competing for the presidency. They are William J. Atkinson, Earl L. Snyder, James R. Stewart and John G. Thomas, incumbent.

Firemen Called For Short Circuit

Cresaptown volunteer firemen were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gellitzen McKenzie at Fairgo Sunday at 11:15 p. m. when a burner of an electric range short-circuited.

Two trucks and 13 firemen answered the alarm, but found the fire out on arrival because Mrs. McKenzie had pulled the switch.

Fire Damages Harper's In Frostburg

Fire, smoke and water last night caused extensive damage to the interior of Harper's Park Lane, a restaurant owned and operated by Lucius Harper in Frostburg.

Volunteers of the Frostburg and Clarysville fire companies had trouble getting to the source of the blaze located between a built-up ceiling and roof of the one-story building.

The firefighters were hampered by the thick smoke which was emitting from the area between the ceiling and roof.

Frostburg firemen received an initial call at 8:46 p. m. and later they called the services of the volunteers of Clarysville.

Improved Weather Forecast

The weather forecast for today should be agreeable to everyone — mostly sunny with a high temperature in the 30's.

Yesterday afternoon the mercury rose to an unofficial high of about 32 degrees and the sun during the day helped melt some of the snow which accumulated since last Thursday.

However by last night the mercury dipped and left streets and highways in an icy condition. Maryland State Police and police of West Virginia and Pennsylvania said highways are still hazardous though passable.

More new snow moved into Western Maryland yesterday. About three inches fell in Garrett County where the temperature was about 15 above last night.

There was a rather heavy deposit of snow yesterday morning, flurries in the afternoon and by last night it stopped snowing.

Nearly an inch or so of new snow fell in the Cumberland area — just enough to make motor travel a little more hazardous.

Yesterday morning the mercury dipped to four degrees below zero in Oakland and it was four above zero in Cumberland.

Ice Skating Is Planned Here Tonight

The City Recreation Department hopes to sponsor ice skating tonight at Gephart Playground if the weather permits, according to C. Eugene Mason, director.

Plans made yesterday call for skating to be offered from 7 to 10 p. m. Hot drinks will be made available by the City Recreation Department.

If conditions are right, it will be the first skating offered by the department this season. Drifting snow prevented the use of the area during the extended cold spell in December.

The skating will be under the supervision of Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director.

She said parents are urged to come with their children to aid in supervising the activity, especially with younger children and beginner skaters.

The department has had many requests from students for afternoon skating but has had to turn down such requests, since it takes several hours for ice to set after it has been softened by afternoon sun.

Sled riding will be offered by the department as long as the snow holds. It was discontinued on one area, Linden Street, after the icy area was cindered.

Bar Association Plans Dinner Meeting

The first monthly dinner meeting of the Allegheny County Bar Association will be held at 6 p. m. Thursday at the Cumberland Country Club.

This will mark the first meeting of the association since William H. Geppert became president last month.

Fire Damages Harper's In Frostburg

Two Companies Fight Blaze

Fire, smoke and water last night caused extensive damage to the interior of Harper's Park Lane, a restaurant owned and operated by Lucius Harper in Frostburg.

Volunteers of the Frostburg and Clarysville fire companies had trouble getting to the source of the blaze located between a built-up ceiling and roof of the one-story building.

The firefighters were hampered by the thick smoke which was emitting from the area between the ceiling and roof.

Frostburg firemen received an initial call at 8:46 p. m. and later they called the services of the volunteers of Clarysville.

At least 40 or 50 volunteers from Frostburg fought the stubborn blaze. They took three trucks to the fire.

The fire seemed to be concentrated in the area midway in the building which is located about a block from Frostburg State Teachers College property.

The fire was possibly caused by an overheated furnace, according to the firemen, who returned to the station about 10:30 p. m.

Bookmobile Operation To Begin Feb. 6

Board Discusses Budget, Personnel

The Allegheny County Library bookmobile, which will take library service to all communities in the county which do not have libraries, is expected to go into operation on or about Monday, February 6.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the county library held last night in the court house, reports on progress to date were outlined.

Dr. Adam Baer, chairman, said that Miss Mary C. Walsh reported on applications for a bookmobile librarian-driver, and an announcement should be made shortly as to who this person is.

There was also discussion concerning the employment of a cataloguer, to work in the Cumberland library. Miss Walsh said that over 5,500 books have been received from the state, which is part of the county's allotment, made to county library systems. She also stated that books are being readied for the bookmobile, which will carry a total of 1,800 volumes, including fiction, reference works, children's books and other volumes.

James Alfred Avirett, treasurer to the board, was instructed to file an application with the city engineer for a building permit for an addition to the rear of the Cumberland Library annex. This addition, to be constructed to conform with the present brick structure and architecture of the annex, will be used to house the new bookmobile and for loading and unloading purposes.

Other remodeling in the library and the annex were discussed and John Mason, county commissioner and board member, was authorized to proceed in obtaining specifications and estimates.

There was discussion of the budget and other questions pertaining to the operation of the entire county library system and its branches. Letters were read from members of the House of Delegates from this county stating they will co-sponsor and support state-aid to libraries legislation.

The board also began preliminary work on the budget to be submitted to the Board of Allegheny County Commissioners early next month, and Miss Walsh was given authorization to proceed with the employment of a bookmobile librarian-driver and a cataloguer. Board members present included Dr. Baer, Commissioner Mason, Mr. Avirett, Okey Michael, Westport; F. Allan Weatherholt, and Miss Walsh.

The next meeting of the board will be February 20 at 7:30 p. m. in the Court House.

Appeal Is Filed By City Officer

Officer Harold E. Gibson yesterday filed an appeal with the Civil Service Commission to a 10-day suspension by the City Police Department on a charge of insubordination.

The city patrolman was suspended last week on the charge preferred by Lt. Donald H. Smith.

The notice of appeal was filed with Police Commissioner, Philmore Fleming and the Civil Service Commission by Harold E. Naughton, attorney for officer Gibson.

Wallace G. Ullery, secretary, said the commission cannot set a date for a hearing until it receives formal specifications of charges.

Two Men Held On State Warrants

Two local men were picked up yesterday by city police on state warrants involving the theft of copper and lead.

They were booked as Olie and William Sponaule and were being held last night in the city jail on warrants issued by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett charging the theft of 212 pounds of copper and 235 pounds of lead from the Potomac Edison Company.

When Olie Sponaule was tried yesterday on a motor vehicle charge, he gave his age as 30 and his address as 95 Glenwood Street. William Sponaule was booked under a 210 Paca Street address.

Tawes Backs Loan Firm Regulation

Commission Would Administer Rules

By LOUIS G. PANOS
ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Monday night promised his "complete support" to a bill aimed at regulating the State's savings and loan industry and thereby removing "a blot on the fair name of Maryland."

The governor made the statement at a press conference attended by members of his commission which drafted the measure.

Chairman Richard W. Case said the bill will be introduced in the current 90-day session of the legislature within the next day or two.

It would be the first broad regulatory law on the subject in Maryland, now the only state in the nation which allows savings and loan firms to operate virtually free of supervision or obligation to report to their investors.

Industry Backs

With only a few changes from preliminary proposals announced earlier, it would set up an unpaid commission to regulate the industry, create the job of a full-time commission director to carry out these regulations, and erect certain standards to be met by firms doing savings and loan business in Maryland.

The measure also would require savings and loan associations to operate as mutual stock firms, authorize the commission to limit the value of giveaways offered as a lure to depositors, and prohibit firms from lending money on second mortgages unless they also hold first mortgages to the same property.

Tawes said these and other provisions provided the comprehensive type of regulation lacking in another bill which he vetoed after enactment by the 1960 legislature.

He added that, unlike the earlier bill, this one has the backing of most major segments of the industry.

However, stiff opposition is expected to be raised, particularly from representatives of firms which now offer more than one type of stock and therefore would be forced out of the savings and loan business.

Hits Promoters

"I am convinced that the proposed legislation is reasonable and will afford to depositors the security and protection to which they are entitled," said the governor.

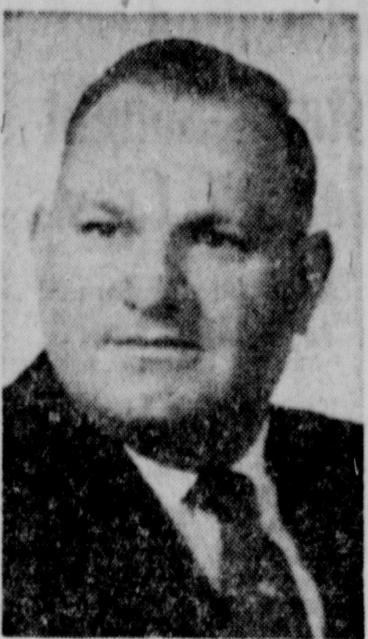

"This legislation ought to remove a blot on the fair name of Maryland, which has been placed upon it by some self-seeking promoters from within and outside the border of our state who have, without concern for safety or protection of depositors, taken advantage of lack of at least minimum requirements for obtaining of charters and subsequent regulation and supervisions."

DAVID E. KIRK

Kirk To Head Heart Fund's Special Events

Assessor Helped In Previous Drives

David E. Kirk, senior assessor for the Allegheny County Assessing Department, will serve as special events chairman for the 1961 Heart Fund drive, it was announced yesterday by F. Allan Weatherholt, general campaign chairman.

Mr. Kirk worked for the Heart Fund as Allegheny County chairman in 1959 and 1960 and has assisted in various other fund raising endeavors.

As special events chairman, Mr. Kirk will head assorted projects in order to raise funds for the heart campaign during February.

In accepting the campaign post, Mr. Kirk asked residents of Allegheny and Garrett counties, which are aided through funds collected by the Allegheny-Garrett County Heart Association, to donate to the drive so that more can be done in fighting heart disease and related diseases which account for more deaths in the country than all other illnesses combined.

Mr. Kirk, who resides at 110 LeFevre Road, is a native of Barton and has been active in volunteer firemen's work and Civil Defense.

He is secretary of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company and former secretary and vice president of the Barton Hose Company. He served a term as president of the Allegheny-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association, and currently is serving his fourth term as executive board member of the state firemen's association.

Mr. Kirk is also serving at present as coordinator of fire service in the Civil Defense system. He formerly was liaison officer for the county firemen's radio network.

A sports enthusiast, the new special events chairman utilized an athletic adage in respect to the heart fund drive. "The best defense against heart disease," he said, "is a good offense supplied with dollars so the nation's worst health enemy can be combated."

B&O Crews Clearing 3 Main Tracks

Freight Derails Near Swanton

Wreck crews from Cumberland and Grafton late last night were working to clear the three main tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad which were blocked just east of Swanton when 16 freight cars of an eastbound High Car 94 derailed yesterday morning.

A railroad spokesman, who said no one was hurt, reported that the first of the main tracks probably will not be cleared until sometime this morning.

Meanwhile rail traffic was being re-routed through Connellsville on the Pittsburgh Division and then over the Chieftain branch to Fairmont and Grafton.

Cause Unknown

Pending a further investigation by railroad officials, the cause of the derailment at 9:48 a. m. was not known last night nor was there an estimation of damage.

Through service on the B&O's Cumberland Division between Keyser and Grafton was blocked by the derailment and snow-covered roads in the area slowed efforts to bring work crews to the scene of the wreck.

The railroad spokesman said that the derailed cars contained tires, lumber, canned goods, copper, flour and other miscellaneous freight.

He said the freight was bound for the Cumberland terminal where it would have been re-switched to various other points.

Westbound Passenger Train 11 from Cumberland to Parkersburg was re-routed as were eastbound Train No. 12, and Train No. 1 which is westbound.

Officials said the pileup was caused when the 11th car of the eastbound freight derailed as the train was starting down the 17-mile grade, about 1 1/2 miles west of Keyser.

Locomotive On Tracks

B. F. Hotchkiss, trainmaster for the Cumberland West End at Keyser, said the locomotive units and first 10 cars of the 115-car train remained on the tracks.

The cars which left the track jammed across the three main tracks. Mr. Hotchkiss said workers could not drive into the scene of the accident due to the high snow drifts on the back roads in that area.

He and other officials were to go by the work train to the scene. Work cranes from here and Grafton were dispatched to the scene to clear up the wreckage.

J. C. Lang of McCoole was engineer on the train and J. E. Chester of Keyser was conductor.

Unemployment Plan Hearing Slated Today

Proposals to change Maryland's unemployment compensation laws will be argued before two committees of the Legislature today.

Three Allegheny County legislators will help conduct the hearing. They are Delegates Noel Speir Cook, Estel B. Kelley and William Walsh, all members of the House Judiciary unit.

Allegheny County labor unions are sending representatives to testify. They are headed by Josiah Mullenax, president Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent letters to its members, urging that they wire legislators that they favor passage of Senate Bill 19.

Senior Citizens To Meet Thursday

The Senior Citizens Club, sponsored by the City Recreation Department, will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Elks Home here.

Kennedy To Report On State Of Union

Message Will Be Delivered Next Week

President Rules Out Any Rush To Summit In Dealings Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will go before Congress next week and deliver a State of the Union message.

This was announced Monday after Kennedy reviewed U.S. foreign and defense policies around the globe in a day-long conference with top aides.

A specific date for next week's address before a joint session of the Senate and House probably will be set at White House meeting Tuesday between the President and Democratic congressional leaders.

Kennedy's State of the Union message may be expected to include a distillation of ideas developed at Monday's conference on international problems and national security.

One of these, an administration spokesman said, is a determination that there will be no rushing to summit meetings in an effort to cure world problems.

The spokesman said Kennedy intends to stress the use of regular diplomatic channels in foreign affairs dealings, although he said this did not rule out summit meetings where adequate preparation may have been made.

Inaugural Address Recalled

In next week's speech Kennedy may elaborate on his inaugural address of last Friday. He said then that both sides in the cold war should make a new try for peace, and emphasized at the same time that the United States will pay any price to maintain liberty.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, announced the President's plans to go before Congress. Salinger said he believed the State of the Union message would not spell out any legislative proposals, but that these would be set forth in special messages to Congress later on.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent to Congress on Jan. 12 the annual State of the Union message required at the start of a new session. Kennedy's decision to submit his own message is nothing new. Eisenhower did the same in 1953 after he took over the presidency from Harry S. Truman.

Both Republicans and Democrats welcomed the President's decision to outline his program in person.

Cabinet Meeting Thursday

Salinger said Rusk and McNamara will return Tuesday for a discussion of disarmament, and on Thursday Kennedy will hold his first Cabinet meeting.

Salinger told newsmen he believed the President would meet with other administration officials later to discuss domestic subjects to be included in his State of the Union message.

Others taking part in Tuesday's disarmament conference will include John J. McCloy, new chief of the U.S. Disarmament Administration; McGeorge Bundy, presidential aide on national security matters; Paul H. Nitze, designated assistant secretary of defense for international affairs, including disarmament; and Jerome Wiesner, the President's science adviser.

Invited to Kennedy's first weekly meeting with Democratic congressional leaders Tuesday are: Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, Sens. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Humphrey, and George Smathers of Florida, and Reps. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and Carl Albert of Oklahoma.

Larger Rules Group Opposed By House GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans voted Monday to oppose a plan to make the rules committee more liberal by enlarging it. The vote could bode trouble for the Kennedy program.

How much trouble depends on how many Republicans oppose the plan when it comes to the floor of the House Thursday.

The plan was devised by Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex. His aim: To break the Republican-Southern Democratic grip on the committee. Rayburn wants to increase committee memberships.

In previous Congresses, House leaders have been unable to push some liberal bills past a Republican-Southern Democratic coalition on the committee. Rayburn's plan would break this blockade by adding two Democrats who would vote with the leadership.

The Republican leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, implied the plan would run into a wall of Republican opposition. He said 140 of the 174 Republican representatives met at a party conference and that "an overwhelming majority" approved a resolution opposing the Rayburn plan.

But another Republican, who would not permit use of his name, said Halleck had little or no hope of defeating it.

The Democrats, who have a decisive majority in the House, approved the plan at a recent caucus.

But Southern Conservatives have indicated they will oppose it in the floor fight. If enough Republicans joined them, the plan could be defeated.

Another plan to make the rules committee more liberal met a quiet death when the House voted to keep Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., on the committee.

The vote on Colmer came as no surprise, for liberals had abandoned hopes of purging him and had supported Rayburn's plan instead.

Blaze Injures 23 On Saratoga

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The U. S. aircraft carrier Saratoga caught fire at sea Monday and seven crewmen were asphyxiated. Twenty-three were injured, one seriously, in this second such tragedy to strike an American carrier in little more than a month.

A broken fuel oil line caused the blaze, which broke out at 2 a.m. in a machinery compartment below decks while the Saratoga—a powerful unit of the U.S. 6th Fleet—was steaming across the Ionian Sea toward Athens.

Fire control parties among the 3,800 officers and men aboard fought the flames for two hours and finally extinguished them without help from other ships of the fleet, with which it had been on patrol in the eastern Mediterranean.

Dead Include Four Officers

The 76,000-ton vessel, commanded by Capt. R. W. Mehle of Cincinnati, Ohio, put into Phaleron Bay near Athens under its own power.

The dead were four officers and three enlisted men.

Rear Adm. Davis L. MacDonald, commander of the fleet's Carrier Task Force 60, whose flagship is the Saratoga, issued this statement: "While cruising in the Ionian Sea at 2 a.m. today the aircraft carrier Saratoga experienced a ruptured oil line in a machinery space, resulting in a serious fire which was fought for two hours before being controlled. It caused very heavy and dense smoke resulting in the asphyxiation of four officers and three enlisted men, a total of seven fatalities; and other injuries of a less serious nature."

"After controlling the fire, the Saratoga went under her own power to her previously scheduled anchorage at Athens, arriving just a little late."

Navy Investigating

Vice Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., the fleet commander, appointed Rear Adm. Arthur R. Gralla, commander of Destroyer Flotilla 2, as president of a court of inquiry.

The Saratoga is a Forrestal-class sister ship of the new Constellation which was severely damaged by fire at the Brooklyn Navy Yard Dec. 19. Fifty civilian workers lost their lives on the Constellation and the Navy estimated damage at nearly $48 million.

The Forrestal-class carriers are the world's largest and most expensive.

With an angled flight deck for fighters and bombers, the Saratoga is 1,045 feet long. The deck is 252 feet across at its widest point.

Ernest Hemingway

Leaves Mayo Clinic

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UPI)—Famed American novelist Ernest Hemingway left the Mayo Clinic Sunday as quietly as he entered it to undergo treatment for hypertension 53 days ago, it was revealed Monday.

The 61-year-old Nobel Prize-winning author, who entered the clinic under the assumed name of George Saviers, checked out at 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

Bandits Murder 12

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Bandits dressed as soldiers killed 12 persons Monday in Valle del Cauca State. The bandits got into various homes by saying they were looking for escaped prisoners.

The unions struck for a guarantee that five-man tugboat crews would not be reduced in size. The 11 railroads involved wanted the right eventually to cut off at least one crewman per tug.

The tugboat strikers and the railroads agreed to shelve the whole issue until next December, when a holdover study commission appointed by President Eisenhower completes a survey of railroad manning problems.

2,000 Attend Last Rites For Dooley

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Young Dr. Thomas A. Dooley was buried in Calvary Cemetery Monday, half a world away from the remote sections of Asia where he introduced modern medicine.

Nearly 2,000 persons gathered in the big St. Louis Cathedral for the funeral of the medical missionary who fought ignorance and disease in Laos and other far-off places.

The St. Louis-born physician died in New York City of cancer last Wednesday, the day after his 34th birthday.

High Court Upholds Film Censorship

Chicago Ordinance Held Constitutional In 5 To 4 Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a 5-4 decision, the Supreme Court Monday upheld the censorship of motion pictures before they are shown.

The minority said the decision means that the door is being opened to the broad censorship of all expression.

The case involved a Chicago ordinance requiring approval by city censors before a motion picture may be shown publicly. This law was challenged by the Times Film Corp. which refused to submit its movie "Don Juan" to the censors. The movie was then banned.

Statute "Not Void On Its Face"

The law violated the First Amendment of the Constitution which guarantees free speech, Times Film said when it took the case to the courts.

The high court upheld the statute, saying: "Chicago's ordinance requiring submission of films prior to their public exhibition is not, on the grounds set forth, void on its face."

The majority opinion, delivered by Justice Tom C. Clark, added, "It never has been held that liberty of speech is absolute."

Joining Clark were Justices Felix Frankfurter, Potter Stewart, Charles E. Whittaker, and John Marshall Harlan.

Clark, Warren Disagree

Apparently trying to withhold any implication of sweeping censorship, Clark denied that the ruling gives city officials "power to prevent the showing of any motion picture they deem unworthy of a license."

He added that "we intimate no opinion" on what may happen "when a concrete case involving a specific standard provided by the ordinance is presented."

But Chief Justice Earl Warren, in a 28-page dissent, did not agree that the majority opinion safely limits censorship. He was joined by Justices William O. Douglas, Hugo Black and William J. Brennan.

Ike Begins His Ga. Vacation

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the weight of world problems lifted from his shoulders, arrived in this south Georgia city Monday for his first vacation since leaving the White House.

Eisenhower went directly to the Blue Springs Plantation, a 15,000-acre private quail-hunting preserve, where he will spend the next week or so as the guest of wealthy New York oilman W. Alton Jones.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who doesn't dislike cold weather as much as her husband, remained in Gettysburg.

Goldberg Helps Settle Railroad Tugboat Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A two-week strike by a small band of railroad tugboat crewmen was settled Monday with the aid of the nation's new secretary of labor. The walkout stranded 100,000 metropolitan commuters and closed main-line tracks as far west as Chicago.

Hudson River ferry service for 30,000 New Jersey passengers was the first to be resumed late in the day, after being closed since Jan. 9 by the strike of 664 railroad mariners.

The New York Central and the New Haven Railroads overnight were shaping up trains that carry 70,000 other commuters.

Freight embargoes, imposed to keep railroad cars from piling up at strikebound terminals, were lifted.

Taking a hand in the settlement of a bitter dispute over the size of tugboat crews was Arthur J. Goldberg, who came here less than 24 hours after he was sworn in as the nation's new Democratic labor secretary. He is former general counsel of the AFL-CIO.

Goldberg was dispatched to New York by President Kennedy, and the quick settlement that followed was attributed in some labor circles to White House pressure by the new President.

Paul Hall, president of the striking Seafarers' International Union, said Goldberg's intervention in a final 14-hour negotiating session on the strike "had shortened it by weeks, if not longer."

By a vote of 262-2, striking members of the Seafarers and two other railroad maritime unions—the Marine Engineers Association and the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union—agreed to shelve for the time being the issue over the size of crews on 51 railroad tugs in New York Harbor.

From this small but significant issue had evolved a deadlock that crippled rail transportation service in the Eastern third of the nation during the icy depths of a savage winter.

The unions struck for a guarantee that five-man tugboat crews would not be reduced in size. The 11 railroads involved wanted the right eventually to cut off at least one crewman per tug.

The tugboat strikers and the railroads agreed to shelve the whole issue until next December, when a holdover study commission appointed by President Eisenhower completes a survey of railroad manning problems.

2,000 Attend Last Rites For Dooley

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Young Dr. Thomas A. Dooley was buried in Calvary Cemetery Monday, half a world away from the remote sections of Asia where he introduced modern medicine.

Nearly 2,000 persons gathered in the big St. Louis Cathedral for the funeral of the medical missionary who fought ignorance and disease in Laos and other far-off places.

The St. Louis-born physician died in New York City of cancer last Wednesday, the day after his 34th birthday.

No Time Limit On Kennedy's Press Sessions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Monday that President Kennedy will not impose any time limits on his news conferences and that they are liable to run longer or shorter than those of President Eisenhower, depending on circumstances.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said efforts will be made to have the news conferences each Wednesday, if possible, although he cannot guarantee that there will be one each week or that another day of the week may not be chosen.

There was a 30-minute time maximum on Eisenhower's question and answer sessions with newsmen.

Cuban Women Stage Protest

HAVANA (UPI) — Women demonstrators against Castro regime executions clashed Monday with a howling, stick-waving mob of Castro supporters in front of the presidential palace.

The mob broke up the demonstration, which was made up of about 100 women carrying signs that said "cease executions of our sons." Some were believed to be widows of men executed by Castro firing squads.

The women, most of them poorly dressed, were harassed on their march by youths who shouted "to the wall" when they read the signs.

In front of the palace, the destination of the protest march, the mob dispersed the women.

Queen's Hunting Party Fails To Even See Tiger

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, sat in shooting boxes 25 feet up in jungle trees for six hours Monday, but their tiger hunt failed to yield a tiger. Not one showed up, and not a shot was fired.

Elaborate arrangements had been made for a month in an effort to insure that a tiger would appear at the proper time and place for the visiting royalty, but the tigers apparently failed to get the message. One was reported seen in the jungle and around lunchtime, but beaters whacking their way through the underbrush failed to stir up a thing.

The queen, wearing khaki-colored linen slacks and a bush jacket, with a scarf over her head, was in one box and Philip in another. Some of the members of the shooting party were armed, but information from the scene—12 miles deep in the jungle—failed to say if the queen was one of these.

After several hours, the hunt broke up for dinner, but after dark the party returned for a nighttime look. The queen had added a green cardigan to her costume.

There was no word as to whether live bait to lure tigers had been tied beneath the shooting boxes—called machans—a common practice for hunting at night. Anyway, no tigers showed up before the whole thing was called off for the night.

Groups in Paris and Britain have protested the queen's participation in the hunt. About 9,000 New Delhi students threatened to go on a hunger strike if the queen encourages tiger shooting.

Portuguese Liner Hunted By Warships

600 Passengers On Vessel Hijacked By Armed Band

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI)—A Portuguese cruise liner carrying 600 passengers, including some Americans, was hijacked by passengers armed with machineguns and grenades in Latin American waters Monday, the navies of three nations reported.

U.S. and British warships were sent to intercept the liner, the Santa Maria.

A Canadian navy spokesman said the uprising broke out aboard the 20,906-ton gray-hulled liner as it sailed from the island of Curacao off Venezuela to go to Miami. A spokesman said the vessel was last sighted Monday morning, miles off course, headed for an unknown destination.

One ship's officer was killed and another wounded in the uprising, the Canadian spokesman said. The wounded officer was put ashore at the British island of St. Lucia, the spokesman said, and the ship then sailed away, with the insurrectionists warning they would scuttle it if a warship approached.

U.S. Sends Destroyers

Despite the air of near-fantasy about the report of piracy on the high seas, the navies of three nations—Canada, the United States and Great Britain—announced the piracy and two nations were taking action to intercept the ship.

The U.S. Navy said in Washington that it is sending destroyers from Puerto Rico "to intercept the vessel under the well-defined terms of international law governing piracy and insurrection aboard ship." The Navy also sent out planes to spot the Santa Maria.

In London, the British Navy reported that 70 passengers, armed with machineguns and hand grenades had taken over the ship.

The admiralty said the anti-submarine frigate Rothesay, visiting in St. Lucia, had been dispatched to search for the Santa Maria. Commodore H. C. J. Shand, the senior British naval officer in the West Indies, was aboard the Rothesay.

The Canadian navy said the uprising was led by a former Portuguese army captain, who was a passenger.

Ship Reported "Engine Trouble"

In Miami, H. O. Shaw, president of Shaw Bros. Shipping Co., agents for the ship, said the Santa Maria was due in Port Lauderdale about 2 p.m. Tuesday afternoon. He said the ship had been due to arrive at 7 a.m. Tuesday, "but we had a message from the ship this afternoon saying they are having engine trouble and would be a little delayed."

Shaw said he had not heard of any uprising aboard the vessel and that the cable he received Monday did not mention it.

Shaw said his office received the message about 5 p.m. He said it was unsigned.

In Lisbon, the vessel's owners, the Companhia Colonial de Navegacao, said "We have no confirmation." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

More Jobless Aid Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg Monday reported a new increase in unemployment. He said he strongly favors some quick special federal aid to the idle.

Goldberg forecast President Kennedy will have something to say on the subject at Kennedy's first news conference as chief executive Wednesday.

The new secretary of labor spoke with newsmen after conferring with Kennedy at the White House on the unemployment situation.

Goldberg and the President also discussed the significant role Goldberg played in settlement of the deadlocked New York harbor strike that had tied up rail transportation in the east.

What is being considered, apparently, is something like the temporary expansion of jobless pay by the Eisenhower administration during the 1958 recession.

This would help workers still being laid off by exhausting their right to state payments, as well as idled workers not covered by the various unemployment compensation programs.

The new idle figures, which Goldberg had just given to Kennedy, indicated that the mid-January unemployed total will exceed 5.5 million. The latest official count, as of mid-December, showed 4.5 million unemployed.

Jackie Off To Fast Start In Changing White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy is making a fast start on redecorating the White House — with some suggestions from her husband and plenty of ideas of her own.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger made it clear, however, that the President and his wife are anxious to "preserve the present atmosphere of the White House," and plan no change in the public rooms.

Salinger told newsmen some changes will be made in the residential quarters to make them "more in keeping with President and Mrs. Kennedy's own taste."

Kennedy, a World War II torpedo boat skipper, has asked his wife to find him a painting of a naval battle to hang over the fireplace in his office.

That's the first order of business for the new First Lady. She's also arranged conferences with some well-known art experts and a decorator of her own from New York.

The preface to the inaugural poem by Robert Frost gets the distinction of being the first framed work the Kennedys will hang on the walls of the presidential mansion.

When he visited the White House Sunday, Frost presented a handwritten copy and Mrs. Kennedy had it framed, Salinger reported.

Mrs. Kennedy will confer with John Walker, director of the National Gallery of Art, and William Walton, a Washington artist, friend and campaign organizer for Kennedy.

The gallery frequently lends art masterpieces to be hung in the White House, and Mrs. Kennedy plans to discuss the lending project.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson took over as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations Monday, faced with new problems in The Congo and a "no progress" report on efforts to end South Africa's racial policies.

Stevenson presented his credentials to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld as permanent representative of the United States and descended to the lobby of world headquarters to be greeted by applause from secretariat members and sightseers.

More Than 50 Die In Weekend House Blazes

By The Associated Press

House fires that broke out Monday and over the weekend took a heavy toll across the country. More than 50 persons died, including at least 28 children.

The worst of the blazes killed seven young children and an adult Monday at Pasadena, Md., about half way between Baltimore and Annapolis. Parents of the children were visiting neighbors at the time.

The victims were Donald L. Green, 9 months, and his brothers and sisters, Maryland, 2; Winifred, 3; Yvette, 4; Joeline, 5; Aaron, 6; a cousin, Regina Wright, 10; and an uncle, Bernard Green, 33, who was caring for them.

Another blaze killed a mother and six of her nine children in their tenement apartment in Brooklyn Sunday morning.

Police said the fire might have been started by one of the children, Charles Fancher, 4, playing with matches.

Killed in addition to the boy were Anna Fancher, 36; Howard, 9; Josephine, 7; Nancy, 3; Florence, 2, and Helen, 1.

In Clermont, Fla., four children died when a heater exploded Saturday night and ignited the house. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yllyses Harris, were visiting in near-by Orlando.

The young victims were Lewis, 7; Grace, 5; Sharon Ann, 3; and Ulysses Jr., 1.

Four other children lost their lives Saturday in a fire that swept through their four-room house at Aurelle, Ark.

Their father, George Lovette, was at work at the time, and their mother had gone to a neighbor's home to get water. Killed were Brenda, 4; Gloria, 3; George, 19 months; and Vanessa, 6 months.

Two more children perished Sunday in a blazing frame house in Elizabeth City, N.C. They were Robert C. Nixon Jr., 7, and Carol Denise White, 4.

Irate Italian Farmers Riot

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Two thousand irate farmers and 100 club-swinging riot police battled for half an hour in downtown Milan Monday in a new outbreak of disorders over imported beef and butter.

Scores of farmers were bruised in the fighting, and one was taken to a hospital after being knocked down by a riot police jeep. Nine were detained by police for questioning.

It was the fifth outbreak of violence in a week here and in nearby cities, where farmers are protesting that Italy's imports of low-priced foreign beef and butter are undercutting the prices of local produce.

The farmers poured into Milan from the countryside and massed in front of the Palazzo Serbelloni where Mario Martinelli, minister of foreign trade, was conferring with local officials. The fighting started when the farmers were told they could not see Martinelli.

Police finally scattered the farmers into side streets. By noon they had begun to disperse and go back to their farms. Their leaders said they would be back.

Tawes Rejects County Tax Plan

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Monday formally rejected proposals by the State Association of County Commissioners for increases in the sales and income taxes to give local governments more revenue.

He told officials of the association that the proposals would have no chance of passage in the current session of the legislature. The group had sought a one per cent increase in the sales tax to be levied at the option of local governments and a 1/2 per cent increase in the state income tax, which would send that rate to 3.5 per cent. This would increase their share of the tax.

Tawes' rejection of the proposals was expected since he has endorsed a $9 million program in aid to local governments and agreed to back it up by lowering the sales tax to purchases of 25 cents and applying the tax to meals.

"Tony" Goes Back To Work

LONDON (AP)—Antony Armstrong-Jones went back to work Monday, 11 months after he shut his photographic studio and married Princess Margaret.

He was a little nervous and, like men all over the world, he had a parking problem.

Traffic Warden No. 69 said to Tony's chauffeur: "Sorry, but you can't stop here."

The driver had parked Princess Margaret's black sedan smack in front of the Council of Industrial Design's nine-story building in busy Haymarket and was waiting to take Tony home for lunch, having previously delivered him at 9:45 a.m.

The royal chauffeur went around the block and Tony, leaving by a side door, popped into the car and roared off for lunch with his wife at Kensington Palace. He was walking up the steps there as Big Ben boomed one. An hour and four minutes later he was back at work. Including those 64 minutes, he put in a 7-hour and 40-minute day—"a full stint," another official called it.

At his own request, it's a job without pay, but with an expense account.

Specifically, the job is: "An adviser on problems of visual presentation and display."

Shaw said the ship sails monthly from Port Everglades for Spain, touching at South Atlantic islands. On the return voyage it goes to Venezuela and then back to Port Everglades.

Shaw described the ship as "primarily a passenger ship which carries some cargo too."

He said that he did not have a passenger list with names but that about 600 passengers were aboard, including women and children of various nationalities. Among them were Americans, Portuguese, Venezuelans, Dutch and Greek, he said. The crew was Portuguese, he added.

New Fashions Leave Figure To Imagination

PARIS (AP)—An unfitted flare that leaves the figure almost entirely up to the imagination is Pierre Cardin's new shape for spring.

Possibly based—very loosely indeed—on the sarong, it was by far the most exciting thing seen on the opening day of the 1961 spring and summer fashion season.

Knees are covered and bosoms flattened, but the Cardin clothes are not without a languishing sort of sex appeal.

A barefooted Tahitian, in sarong, flower lei and flowing tresses, strolled out to open the show. This was Yen, Cardin's newest and most exotic mannequin, who joins a Siamese and a Japanese girl already modeling there.

The Cardin line ranges from outright sacks, some of them pleated, to a princess-on-the-loose shape, vaguely fitted in front and flowing in the breeze behind. One of his biggest ideas is a wrapped-over and free-falling back panel.

Fashion goes round and round—reasonably slim. Two types of skirts prevail—flared, or straight behind the bust and whirl round behind with a softly gathered front. Most jackets are short, but some near-turtles drop to the bottom of the neckline.

Fruit colors, inspired by Gauguin paintings, include raspberry, orange, tangerine, and pale apricot, but black and gray are also in the picture. Materials include silk crepes, chiffons, dark slubbed silk Madras plaids, linen-weave and soft woolsens.

Cardin hats taper from an inch-wide brim over the brow to an outsized scoop behind. He showed an all-flower handbag that looked like a miniature baby, bassinet and another in puffed lace. His two ideas for trimmings are a big bunch of cherries on the shoulder or hip, and a nosegay of violets perched like a chip on the shoulder.

Perhaps the most attractive and wearable of his new creations are his suits, all off-the-figure but

Lubricates itself—You'll normally go 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications (which cost only about $4.00 and take about 20 minutes) because Ford has replaced conventional grease fittings with a sealed-in lubrication system.

Cleans its own oil—You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes because Ford's Full-Flow oil filter gives you filtration through fibers . . . trapping more dirt than any other type of filter made.

Adjusts its own brakes—New Truck Size brakes adjust themselves—automatically. Guards its own muffler—Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.

Protects its own body—All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing the body panels beneath the doors.

HOW TWO MEN AND THIS TELEPHONE SAVED A LIFE

It was 8:45 A.M. Clyde Taylor, telephone maintenance man, worked at his test desk trying to trace the cause of a continuous busy signal on one of the telephones in his exchange. As Clyde ran a series of trouble checks, he suddenly thought he heard a low moaning sound.

He immediately dispatched one of his repairmen, George Daniels, to the home where the telephone was located. When no one answered the doorbell, Mr. Daniels looked inside the house through a window. Lying prostrate on the floor was an elderly man. Beside him on a table was his telephone, the receiver hanging off the hook.

Later, at the hospital, authorities said that the quick action of this telephone maintenance team saved this heart attack victim's life.

We're happy that the desire of telephone people to be of service so often results in even more than good telephone service.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A five-year-old girl, severely burned when her clothing was set aflame by a curling iron, was reported in fair condition at a hospital Monday.

The youngster, Dorothy Jean Hill, suffered first, second and third degree burns over her entire body in the accident Sunday. She picked up the iron from a burner on a gas stove when her mother stepped out of the room for a moment.

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Montgomery County citizens will have an opportunity Wednesday night to air their views on a proposed increase in the county's school board operating budget.

About 500 persons are expected to attend the meeting at Richard Montgomery High School here.

Critics say they will question the wisdom of a budget provision for salary increases to administrators while there is none for teachers. The school budget of $46.5 million is $8 million more than the present budget.

BALTIMORE (AP)—An abominable snowman in Baltimore? Could be, perhaps, the way the weather is going these days.

Anyway, Northern district police are on the lookout for a six-foot creature, heavily covered with black hair, which has big eyes, long teeth and looks like a kangaroo.

The beast turned up Sunday on the parking lot of a service station, police were told. Officers responding to a call for help followed a trail of footprints—about the size of half dollars—for a block or so, before the tracks vanished in a backyard.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A 6 per cent. The corn was for use by the Continental Army during the Revolutionary War.

Matheny, a paint store operator, figured up the interest compounded at 6 per cent in modern dollar equivalent and arrived at $14,160. Maryland didn't seem to get the joke. Matheny isn't the kind of guy who would bankrupt a state, so he's taking Maryland off the hook.

Matheny found in an old family Bible a note issued by Maryland to one of his forbears, one John Beatty.

The note, dated Feb. 18, 1730, was for 78 pounds and 15 shillings and it said it was given "for carrying 17½ bushels of indian corn from said county to York Town, Pa., at four pounds and 10 shillings . . . with interest thereon at

Secrets Of Charm

A Phony Is Easily Spotted

What's your impression of the girl who puts on an act?

When less than one out of a thousand who have talent can make the grade professionally as an actress or actor, what chance has the teenager who dresses up in slinky, black satin and tries to pass for twenty-one or as a femme fatale?

All she's likely to get is a laugh from the local Montgomery Clift self—in such a way that others whom she wants to impress. And for the worst of it is, despite the fact that the movies and radio find in peeling young woman!

This situation a sure comic hit whenever they need one, phony aren't always funny. Too often they are tragic. But tragic or not, there's one big thing they never are—and that is romantic.

Whether you are at an age when you gleefully acclaim the added year every time your birthday rolls around, or greet it in opposite fashion, the only way you can win the personal recognition you desire is by acting like yourself at all times—your most natural, attractive self, at that.

But don't confuse being natural with being overly casual. Jeans and joes when worn in the wrong places are just as much of a pose and affection as the slinky dress worn in the juke joint. And wearing bluejeans downtown certainly won't encourage the salesgirl to give you mink-coat service.

If you are on the threshold of the years you most long for, you can take a step toward the grown-up recognition you feel you deserve by striving to look and act as though you are worth it. No more slopping around the campus (even in "girls only" schools). No more shuffling around home (even the family has eyes that can see). No more careless, ungroomed saunters into town (even your best beau might happen along).

Any girl can cop term honors in popularity in a breeze if she looks, speaks and acts in a way that is natural to her personality and to the places that her personality deigns to frequent.

Start now to be your natural self—in such a way that others will recognize you immediately for what you are: a charming, ap- pealing young woman!

Uncle Sam, your bank, and you

How this 20-year-old partnership helps keep America strong

Since May 1941, America's banks have sold nearly 2 billion separate U.S. Savings Bonds at no cost to the Government or the purchasers. To give you some idea of the time involved: if you merely handed out that many Bonds at the rate of 1 a second for 10 hours a day, it would take you 152 years to reach the bottom of the pile.

Why have the nation's banks and bankers carried on this vast project of information, service, and issuance of U.S. Savings Bonds?

A winning team. For one reason, the Bond Program and the Banking business have grown together. Hand in hand, they've helped make Americans the saving-est people in the world.

Folks who save Bonds get the thrift habit. They soon learn other forms of saving and investment. They become better all-around bank customers. And Bond owners are better credit risks.

Another thing bankers are interested in: Bond dollars help keep America strong. A good reason for the banking business or any business to get behind the Bond program.

What you buy at the Bond Window. When your banker advises you to buy U.S. Savings Bonds, he's recommending an investment guaranteed to grow: $18.75 becomes $25 in 7 years, 9 months, and grows to $36.25 in another 10 years. They can be cashed in anytime with interest. And if they're lost or destroyed, the Treasury Department replaces them free.

Why not take this advice offered by the nation's bankers. Buy and hold U.S. Savings Bonds—for the things you want, and the Peace to enjoy them.

"America's Banks are proud to be part of the Bond Program,"

Phoenix, Arizona, and President, American Bankers Assn.*

"We believe it is good for America, an economic stabilizer; it is good for the individual and the community; and it is good for banking. The promotion of Savings Bonds has helped to make savers out of non-savers, to revitalize the American tradition of thrift, and to build savings in all forms to record levels.

"The American Bankers Association congratulates the Nation and the public on the 20-year success story of the U.S. Savings Bonds Program, and pledges its vigorous continued support."

Carl A. Bimson

Ann Landers . . .
Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why is it that the hotel maid is usually the forgotten woman? My wife works in a first-class hotel. You wouldn't believe the things supposedly high-toned people do.

They leave beer cans in dresser drawers, dishes and trays under the bed and liquor bottles under mattresses. They wipe their shoes with the shower curtain, spill nailpolish and ink on bedspreads and leave the tub filled with water because they're too lazy to turn a handle or pull a plug.

The maid is supposed to have the room in perfect order for the next guest. When people behave like pigs it takes a lot of extra time and work. They are the ones who never leave a tip. Is this right?—FRIED

DEAR FRIED: No it isn't right. Orderly guests should leave about 50 cents for a one or two night stay. Slobs should leave $1.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You often have letters from women who complain because of mother-in-law interference. Well, this is from a man whose father-in-law won't stay out of the picture.

I married Elsa three years ago. Her mother died when she was seven and her Dad has poured out all his affection and money on Elsa. From the start Elsa insisted on taking large amounts of money from him against my wishes so I decided the only way to make our marriage work was to move a few thousand miles away.

Her Dad came out to visit us even before the van unloaded the furniture. He stayed three weeks and when he left Elsa went back with him. She was "worn out" she said from moving. She stayed five weeks.

When she returned her father came back with her. I haven't been alone with my wife for so long I forgot what it's like. He pays our bills, gave her a car and he bought her a fur coat. I've told her I don't want her to take another penny from him. She says "What's his mine." What can I do?—JERK

DEAR JERK: Your wife wants to be her Daddy's darling, not a married woman. Tell her to get a doctor to help her grow up or go back to her Dad for good.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son wrote us that he was married in Japan last week. He is in the service over there and met this nice American girl who works for the U. S. government.

I've been going to showers for brides for 20 years. When I tell you I have shelled out a fantastic amount for shower gifts I am not exaggerating. I want to give a shower for my daughter-in-law in her absence. They will be back in this country in six months.

I think it would be nice to surprise them with a table heaped with kitchen appliances and linens. My daughters say this would be improper. What is your view?—WILMA

DEAR WILMA: A shower for a bride who is half a world away is an obvious bid for gifts. The least you can do is wait till she gets over here—then clobber 'em. It won't be so transparent.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Getty Lodges Complaint On Health Unit

The State's Attorney for Allegany County yesterday lodged a written complaint concerning working policies of the Allegany County Health Department.

James S. Getty, State's attorney, voiced his opinions in a letter to the Allegany County Commissioners. Dr. Perry Prather, director of the Maryland State Department of Health, and Louis E. Schmidt, attorney for the State Department of Health.

Getty's letter stated: "On Friday, January 20, my office requested the local Health Department to examine a 14-year-old girl in a morals case.

"At the time of the request the Health Department was conducting a clinic in the same building and a gynecologist was present. The Health Department, through Dr. Ton van Strein, informed the county investigator (Edwin R. Lilya) that this examination, by order of the State Department of Health, would have to be done privately and could not be made through the local health office.

"This meant a postponement of several days, setting up of an appointment with a private physician and an additional expense to the county, which in my considered opinion is inefficient, an imposition on private physicians and a needless expense to the county.

"I know of no valid reason why the county health officer or members of his staff cannot assist the State's Attorney's office in these matters.

"This cooperation did exist under the former medical examiner, the late Dr. Winter R. Frantz, and not once in my recollection was he ever asked to appear and testify in court. It is a service that I think paid public employees should render the state.

"My office has never refused to cooperate with the State Health Department in any matters of interest to your agency. The lack of reciprocity, however, leaves me with little sympathy for requests from the Health Department.

"If you have in fact ordered the local Health Department not to assist this office in such matters, I would appreciate being advised of this. If such an order has not been made, I would appreciate your advising me and the local health officer accordingly."

Dr. van Strien yesterday afternoon said he had "no comment" and was awaiting clarification from the central office of the State Department of Health.

He pointed out that he checked with Baltimore two years ago when a similar case arose, and that it was his understanding that the Health Department should not become engaged in medical-legal activities.

Council Approves Three Street Resurfacing Jobs

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved three streets for resurfacing under the 1961 Street Department program and introductory ordinances for three more projects were read.

Approved yesterday were Allegheny Street from Fayette Street to Cumberland Street; East Elder Street from Virginia Avenue to the C&O Canal; and Washington Street from Kiefer Avenue to Fayette.

Learnings will be held on three other resurfacing proposals Monday, February 6. They include Arch Street from Oldtown Road to Fifth Street; Buckingham Road from Greene Street to its end; and Greenway Avenue from Williams Street to Brookfield Avenue.

The streets are among 15 included in the 1961 resurfacing program of the Street Department. Commissioner John J. Long has said that they will be resurfaced if money is available but that by acting at the present time, his department will be ready to move in the spring if financial conditions warrant.

Fay Thompson, 206 Elder Street, appeared in connection with that proposal, questioning why property owners should pay when other area streets had been paved without cost to the citizen. He said the Elder Street surface was "put down" in WPA days and never hard finished. City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said he had no comment on Thompson's statements but added the street does need surfacing.

Appearing on the Washington Street proposal were Bernard Whitacre, 403 Washington, Mrs. C. P. Jolley, corner of Fayette and Washington Streets; John Bestwick, 801 Washington Street; and James W. Simpson, 805 Washington Street.

In answer to questions about whether partial repairs could be made and the possibility of adding to an already serious traffic and safety problem, Nuzum said the street is down to base which is being worn away by traffic and weather, and a seal and surface are badly needed. He said for safety sake, a rough asphalt and chip mixture could be placed on the new surface if deemed necessary.

On another street matter, Nuzum submitted a report on the cost of resurfacing Frederick Street from Decatur Street, 2,230 feet north.

Total cost of the project was $12,819.20 which is shared 50-50 by the property owner and city or $6,409.60 each. That means a cost of $1.58 a lineal foot to the property owner.

Mrs. Jesse H. Weaver, 721 Glenmore Street, appeared to ask that an alley be paved and drainage installed.

Fay Thompson commended Commissioner Long for prompt action in correcting an alley condition between Potomac and Offutt streets. Long said the prompt action was due to the men in his department and Superintendent Ray Valentine.

Snow Removal Ordinances Tabled Again

The Mayor and Council tabled for another week ordinances on street and sidewalk snow removal yesterday but some members voiced praise for the Street Department job and public cooperation in clearing of streets after last Thursday night's deluge.

Both ordinances were tabled on motion of Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming who said he would like to see some changes in the proposed new law.

He said he was not agreeable to the Police Department being called out in the early morning hours to tag or have cars towed away.

It was Fleming who said the Street Department did a "wonderful job" in the most recent snowfall and added the appeal by Commissioner John J. Long to keep main arteries free of parked cars brought public cooperation.

Fleming said he felt that rather than pass such a stringent snow removal ordinance at this time, the people should be put through an indoctrination or education period for moving cars off streets in snow emergencies.

Again, he said Long's department and men should be congratulated along with the public and then added that his department cooperated and was happy to do so.

Long told council that the snow removal ordinance is needed and suggested members of council tell City Attorney William R. Carscaden what changes are desired so it can be approved. Long, too, praised the cooperation of the public in the snow removal last weekend and said "It shows what they will do when called upon."

Mayor J. Edwin Keech agreed that Carscaden should be apprised of council's thoughts on the ordinance and said that it is needed. He also praised the cooperation of the public and Police Department with the Street Department.

Richard Clark, Detmold, was reported in "good" condition yesterday at Miners Hospital in Frostburg where he was admitted Sunday with a gunshot wound.

Maryland State Police said he accidentally shot himself in the right leg, below the knee.

Clark reportedly sustained the wound while cleaning a .22 calibre pistol at his home.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI)—You can multiply 5,132,437.201 by 452,736,502,785—in 70 seconds—once you master the shorthand system of multiplication.

Ann Cutler, co-author of a new book about instant math, watched an 11-year-old boy solve such a problem in seconds four years ago in Zurich, Switzerland.

She spent months subsequently investigating the off-beat approach to figures. Her sleuthing convinced her: The Trachtenberg system can make a mathematical genius of any one who can count to 11.

Miss Cutler said educational experts believe that in the next decade, the system developed by the late Jakob Trachtenberg will revolutionize the teaching of arithmetic.

"It shortens mathematical computation time by 80 per cent and is 99 per cent effective," Miss Cutler said.

"The system, easily learned, can be of immeasurable help to anyone who uses figures—from the housewife adding up her bills to the businessman balancing his bank statements, to the woman counting calories."

The school in which Miss Cutler first witnessed the results of instant math was the Trachtenberg Institute of Mathematics. It's called "the school of geniuses."

"The nickname," she said, "refers to the mathematical abilities of the youngsters who have taken the course. Most, upon entry, are considered mathematical failures, many having flunked math three or four times."

The system accomplishing this miracle employs arithmetical procedures radically different from conventional methods. Miss Cutler said, for example, that no multiplication tables and no long division as currently known are used when figuring the shorthand way.

She said Trachtenberg developed most of the system mentally while a concentration camp inmate for seven years.

Miss Cutler said she and a mathematician, Rudolph McShane had to translate a Trachtenberg manuscript before adapting the system for presentation in the book "The Trachtenberg Speed System of Basic Mathematics."

Miss Cutler, a native of Huntington, W. Va., is a graduate of Marshall College.

"I barely got through my math courses," she said. "But now I consider myself a mathematical whiz."

Guesswork And The Budget

It takes two to make a budget proposed by the ex-President was a one-department offering. President Kennedy will propose and Congress will dispose.

Being of the same party, there may be less divergence of purpose during the Kennedy years than was the case recently. But that doesn't necessarily follow, especially if Presidential projects go beyond what is sometimes humorously referred to as the conservatism of Congress.

The Eisenhower budget of $80.9 billion was his highest—an augury. It is widely predicted there will never again be an $80 billion budget. Mr. Eisenhower's lowest budget was $64 billion. This one is $17 billion higher.

The Kennedy spending urge is even stronger. There will be a Kennedy budget in all probability of close to $100 billion before his tenure has ended, even if he serves only one term.

Nearly all budgets are presented as "in balance," which is mere guesswork. No one knows whether a strengthening economy is going to yield a lot of revenue or an ebbing prosperity will shrink tax receipts.

But everyone knows that international signals are flying which call for careful fiscal policies in protection of the nation's basic monetary structure.

These Days

The Red China Policy

Anyone who knows the character of President Kennedy must assume that he will have the final voice in the conduct of the foreign policy of this country. He has organized his foreign affairs team in such a manner that obviously he will be forced to act as arbiter among Dean Rusk, Adlai Stevenson and Chester Bowles and it will test his own diplomatic capacity to keep this team rolling in a single direction without prima donnaish outbursts.

Adlai Stevenson has already said his piece concerning China. His statement produced many confusing headlines, which shows what happens when a clear statement of fact is not said with clarity. Stevenson's statement of fact, in effect, was that it is probable that the United States will be voted down in the United Nations in the near future and that Red China will be admitted to the United Nations. He did not say that he favored such a development.

Chester Bowles spoke more clearly and succinctly. He is opposed to Red China's entrance into the United Nations and he is in favor of Formosa and of the holding of the islands of Quemoy and Matsu. His only qualification, when he testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was that the United States should not withdraw from the United Nations should Red China be admitted.

It is significant that the China question loomed so large in the discussions before the Foreign Relations Committee. It indicated to the Kennedy Administration that this is not an issue that can be passed over lightly by the State Department and that public opinion in this country was still, if not more so, anti-Peking.

The other side of the coin is that with the shift in the balance of power in the General Assembly of the United Nations, the United States may not long be in control of the situation there. The Afro-Asian group, if it holds together, and the South American group, which used to vote with us solidly but no longer does, can produce a sufficient vote to embarrass the United States by voting with the Soviet bloc.

Even if the Western Europeans were of one mind on the subject of not admitting Red China to the United Nations, which they are not, the actual decision on any question in the General Assembly of the United Nations could numerically go against us.

This is a realistic situation which requires a realistic decision. We cannot hope to hold these people to our side as long as they read in the newspapers that peoples of their race and color are regarded as inferior savages because of race and color. We cannot say to them, "Vote for the United States in the United Nations," and then have incidents in this country which prove to them that they are despised here. It is as simple as that.

We could, of course, get out of the United Nations altogether and let the Afro-Asians run the place, inviting Chou En-lai to come from Peking to dictate what should be done. But then, our problem would be: where would we get allies or have bases should Soviet Russia make a fighting war on the United States?

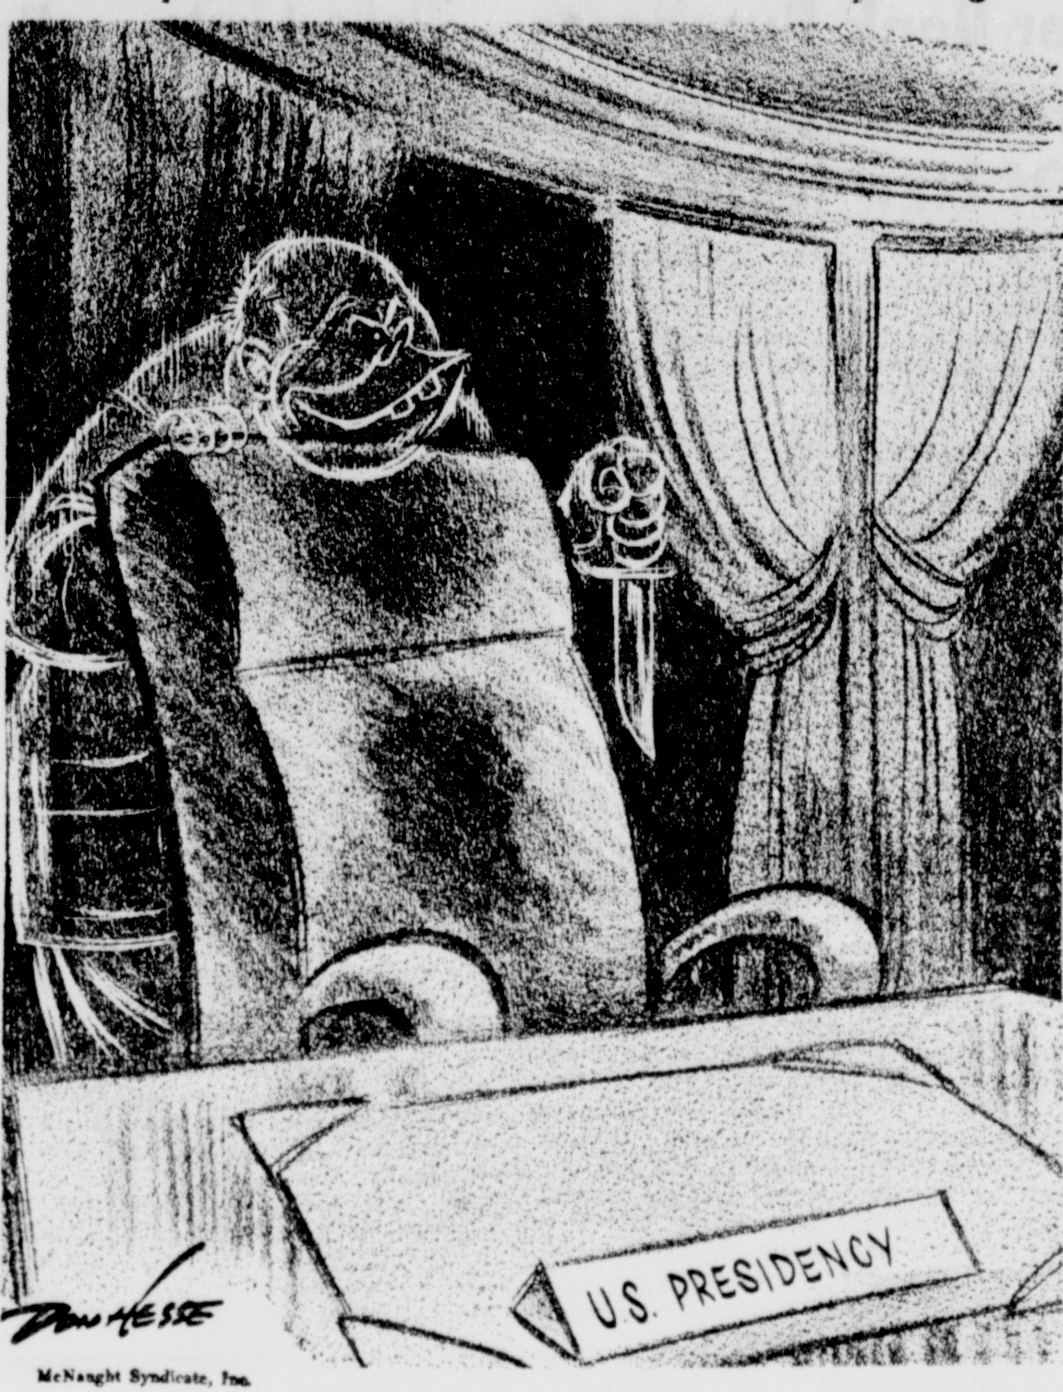

These are questions that are not in the distant future or the long run. They will come up at the next session of the General Assembly in March and they will arise in the Assembly after that.

Red China is conducting a world-wide propaganda of hate against the United States. It is using all its weapons to force a war between the United States and Soviet Russia in the wily belief that Peking can take advantage of both countries during such a war. Its theories are based on the strategic adage, "Let you and him fight."

We are now engaged in a battle of wits against Red China, in a battle which we have been losing because we have no effective propagandistic weapons to use against Red China among those who now hold the votes in the United Nations—the non-white peoples.

There are many in this country who refuse to recognize our dangerous dilemma. They are so moved emotionally by local situations that they cannot see the peril of their attitude. The pity of it is that the China issue may be the springboard for war.

Kennedy's Address Expressed Basic U.S. Policy

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Just why did almost everybody here approve of President Kennedy's inaugural address—Republicans and Democrats, conservatives and non-conservatives alike?

The answer is: because the speech expressed eloquently, forcefully, clearly the foreign policy of the United States—its traditional principles for decades past.

But while America was thrilled by the speech, the Soviet Union censored it. It was a grim reminder of the problem faced by the new President. For he is being prevented—even as was his predecessor—from talking to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain. Here are three passages which a Moscow dispatch by the United Press International tells us did not appear in the press of the Soviet Union:

"Let every nation know, whether it wishes us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe to assure the survival and success of liberty."

"To those new states whom we welcome to the ranks of the free, we pledge our word that one form of colonial control shall not have passed away merely to be replaced by a far more iron tyranny."

"And let every other power know that this hemisphere intends to remain the master of its own house."

Presumably the Soviets didn't want to print anything that runs contrary to what their Premier said recently in his professed opposition to "colonialism" or to be reminded by implication that there are several states now under Soviet domination which constitutes a new form of "colonialism."

Presumably also the Soviet government didn't want its people to know of the resoluteness of the new President of the United States when he warns the Soviet Union that the American people will be asked to "pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe to assure the survival and success of liberty."

For this timely warning was but another way of saying that America will negotiate, is not afraid to negotiate, and is eager to "begin anew the quest for peace" but that this must not be construed as a bid for peace-at-any-price. Although the Soviet newspapers didn't print the speech in full—and it was very short—Mr. Khrushchev and the others in the Kremlin undoubtedly read every word of it.

There were only a few sentences in the inaugural address which could be construed as relating to domestic policy, and it may also be asked: why did these please all sides, or at least the conservatives? The answer is to be found in this memorable sentence.

"And so, my fellow Americans: ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

This places an emphasis on self-reliance and is the true meaning of the opposition to the "welfare state." This has been too often distorted as opposition to all reforms and to all progress, when the truth is no sensible conservative ever opposes direct intervention by the government in the economic life of the country in an emergency or when all other means has failed—as when private enterprise cannot finance a project essential to the general welfare. Incidentally, Mr. Kennedy's pronouncement parallels the plea for a responsible individ-

Many Americans Contribute Funds To Start 'Free University Of Cuba'

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — In keeping with President Kennedy's inaugural appeal "Don't ask America what she can do for you, instead ask what you can do for America," a lot of people have written me, sending small donations to build a "Free University of Cuba."

They are very inspiring letters, and come from all sorts of people, ranging from Emilio Menendez, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Cuba to Congressman Dante Fascell of Miami and Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota. Milt Andrus of the Boca Grande Hotel in Boca Grande even offered the facilities of his hotel, now being reconstructed from hurricane damage, as temporary quarters to house the university.

Behind the idea of a Free University of Cuba is, first, the fact that you can't defeat the name-calling of Castroism by calling names in return. You can defeat him by such things as restoring the freedoms of Cuban culture and learning as typified by the once-free University of Havana now being policed by Castro's intelligence men.

In Latin America, universities enjoy a special sovereignty. They are exempt from the police, considered sanctuaries of intellectual and political freedom. It was from the University of Havana that Castro and his student rebels staged their first demonstrations against President Batista. Batista tolerated them. Castro, in contrast, has put the university under police rule. That's why so many professors have fled to the United States, are now waiters, mechanics, and bellhops in Miami.

The second idea behind the Free University of Cuba would be to build a permanent University of the Americas. Castroism will not last forever, and the professors now in exile eventually will go back to the University of Havana. However, the temporary monument to educational freedom could continue as a permanent educational monument to better understanding between the Americas—something neglected of late.

Farsighted Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas long ago saw the importance of student exchange and has persuaded Congress to put up a modest amount of money for it. A University of the Americas could attract more and more students from North and South America and cement greater and firmer bonds between our neighbors.

Good-will trips by Presidents and Vice Presidents may arouse friendship enthusiasm for a few days, but a university to which Latin nations contribute professors as well as students can build good will permanently.

Oil Influences The Senate

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri is both pleasant and effective, does not get mad easily. But the other day in the secrecy of the Senate Democratic caucus, he told of an incident which had once made his blood boil.

Symington told the story to illustrate something which has been burning up other Senators—the jockeying for position on committees by Vice President Lyndon Johnson for the purpose of protecting Texas oil.

Oil and all that goes with it—campaign contributions and the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance—have been the unseen but very potent factor in the appointment of key committee posts and the grumbling over oil attorney John B. Connally, Johnson's likeable ex-assistant, as Secretary of the Navy.

What Symington told his fellow Democrats was that two years ago he had wanted to be appointed to a certain committee and cleared it with the chairman, who wanted him. He found he had the seniority to be appointed and fully expected to get it. Then he was asked how he stood on a certain bill, and replied frankly that he was opposed to it.

Thereafter, Symington said, he was told by the "leadership" that he could not serve on two major committees at one time and was denied the appointment he wanted.

Senators who listened to Symington knew that he was talking about the Appropriations Committee, and that the bill he had been asked about dealt with the oil depletion allowance. "The leadership" of course referred to Sen. Lyndon Johnson, now Vice President.

More Oil Influence

Another significant committee switch took place last week, also because of oil. Senator Fulbright suddenly stepped down from ranking member of the Banking and Currency Committee and took a nonranking position on the Senate Finance Committee.

This might not seem important to most people, but to insiders it meant one thing—oil.

Few Senators ever relinquish a No. 2 spot on an important committee like Banking and Currency without reason. The Finance Committee, however, is the committee which passes on the oil depletion allowance. And Sen. Bill Proxmire of Wisconsin, a forthright battler against the oil depletion allowance, wanted a spot on the Finance Committee. He had tried to get it for more than two years, and under usual Senate custom was entitled to it.

The only way he could be blocked was by having a very senior Senator ask for it. Fulbright has that seniority. Furthermore, he is an oil Senator. He is a sort of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Senator who occupies the lofty position of chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee but also goes down the line for oil. He was author of the Fulbright-Harris natural gas bill. So Vice President Johnson arranged with Fulbright to step down from his key spot on Banking and Currency to a very junior spot on the Finance Committee—where he can help protect the oil depletion allowance.

This blocked Proxmire who had sworn to close oil loopholes in the tax laws.

It's Our Pasture

By John Crosby

The Federal Communications Commission has approved a three-year, ten million dollar test for pay television in Hartford, Conn. So pay TV marches one step closer to being the law and the custom of the land.

But, if this is what lies ahead—and I believe that it is—I must emphatically think some coherent philosophy about pay television should be arrived at. What should pay TV do that free—or advertiser-paid-for—television doesn't do? Should we be forced to pay for something that we already get free? Why?

I have yet to hear one clear explanation of this from the advocates of pay TV, including Zenith Radio Corp., one of those authorized to go ahead with the Hartford experiment. Zenith has been the vanguard of those fighting for pay TV. For years it has flooded all newspaper offices with mile-long telegrams at every possible opportunity, arguing the superiority of its system to the commercial television we now have. Not once do I remember Zenith telling me what obligation it owed to me for charging me for the privilege of using my air lanes.

Let us all be clear on that point right now. The air is ours—yours, mine, and Joe Doakes's over there. It does not belong to NBC, ABC, or CBS, or "The Chicago Tribune"—though they frequently act as if it does. It belongs to you and me. You and I have authorized NBC and CBS and "The Chicago Tribune" (which owns radio and television stations and has insisted it should own its frequency) to use the air for our enrichment, our entertainment, our education, and for the dissemination of information that we need.

Or, to put it another way, we let the networks and others graze fr— in our pasture but in return, they are expected to provide some services. Well, they do. I think there are grave shortcomings in the range of services and in the quality of services and especially in the grievous narrowness of its emphasis on entertainment, of its concentration on the lowest tastes of the lowest common denominator of the public. Nevertheless, the networks and the others have given us operas, plays, Perry Como, Huntley-Brinkley, Groucho Marx, and a lot of other things—all for nothing. It's been a reasonably fair exchange. They have made bloody fortunes using our pasture; but we've had the long winter evenings filled with songs and jokes and news.

Now, sir. Along comes Zenith with a new proposal. It wants to use our pasture under new terms. Zenith says it can raise on the lower fifty a better crop of news and entertainment and culture than can free television. For economic reasons and for various other reasons which might be summed up in the single phrase Madison Avenue, I think maybe they can. I think that within a very short time, Madison Avenue can no longer afford to pay television's bills. Already advertisers are beginning to want out of this insatiable monster. No matter how big the audience, there is a limit to what the advertiser can pay—and that limit is being rapidly approached.

Economics and historic forces are pushing us into Zenith's hands. But let us get the most out of this. Zenith says it will give us first run movies, plays, sporting events, not available on free television. But we must pay.

I have a big sigh and say: Okay, I'll pay. But how much are you going to pay, Zenith, for the use of my pasture? (Actually, it's yours and mine but let me do the bargaining here.) Zenith— you mark my words—will rear back in horror and say: "But you been letting NBC, CBS, ABC, and the others graze down there for years for nothing!" At this point, I suck a bit on a straw and observe: "But they give me Perry Como for nothing. You gonna charge me to listen to Perry Como. So I'm gonna charge you for use of the lower forty."

Make no mistake about it: enormous fortunes are going to be made in pay TV when it gets here. Already the fortunes made by entrepreneurs in free television dwarf the fortunes made in early silent pictures—and all with the use of our facilities.

Consequently, we should hesitate not at all in driving the hardest bargain we can drive for use of the air waves. (If pay TV is done over private wires it's something else.) I think 50 per cent of the take is a fair rental for use of the theater. We must never think of this as a tax. It's not a tax. It's rent for use of the public domain. I don't think we should ever sell those frequencies outright. I don't think we should give them away. We should rent them.

But more than that, we should regulate the use far more closely than we have in the past. It's our air. We should regulate, to start out with, the rates that may be charged. Already, I think the proposed rates are far, far too high. Admission charges of $1, $2, $3 are airily proposed. Why? Even at nickels and dimes the fortunes to be made on pay TV will be enormous.

I think the F. C. C. should not only be empowered but required to pass on rates charged the poor public for the use of the air waves just as the I. C. C. passes on rail rates. More than that, I think you and I through the F. C. C. (or some other agency) ought to demand that Zenith maintain a certain quality of service just as the railroads are required to serve certain points.

Heart Consciousness Can Lead To Anxiety

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The heart is an important organ and the slightest suggestion that something is wrong causes concern. Heart consciousness, brought on by palpitation, breathlessness, or chest pain, can cause considerable anxiety.

A common problem is presented by one of our readers, K. F.: "Periodically I hear my heart pound in my ears while lying in bed." The key word is "periodically." It tells us that the pounding is not caused by an abnormal blood vessel in the brain. A constant, pulsating sound in the ear usually comes from a dilated or narrowed artery that purrs or roars with each beat of the heart.

The pounding that is heard while in bed occurs as a rule when lying on the left side. The heart beats against the chest wall and the sound is carried through the mattress to the ear. When the contractions are more forceful, as occurs occasionally in palpitation the beat may be heard in any position.

Several years ago a Northwestern University professor of medicine was visiting a German hospital. A young physician was showing him through the wards and stopped at a bed that was in the corner next to the wall.

"This is a most unusual patient," said the young medic. "Stand close to the bed and you will hear his heart beat without using the stethoscope." The American physician listened for a few moments and then pulled the bed away from the wall. The sound disappeared. The German was embarrassed and the American said good-by promptly. The sound of the patient's heartbeat was being transmitted through the bed and into the wall. It was a quick cure.

Palpitation may stem from heart disease but other possibilities are considered when the old ticker is sound and the electrocardiogram is normal. It is a common complaint among the high-strung and emotionally disturbed. Over-fatigue and too much coffee, tea, tobacco, or alcohol may induce or aggravate palpitation.

Try And Stop Me

Some time ago, recalls critic George Oppenheimer, "a ham actor decided to revive 'The Jest' with himself in the role created by John Barrymore. Unfortunately, the ham weighed about 210 pounds on the hoof, and when he donned the tights called for by the part, he was quite a sight, fore and aft."

"When he strode upon the stage for the opening performance, and struck the typical Barrymore pose, there was a moment of deep silence in the theatre. That was interrupted by an irreverent soul in the balcony. 'My God!' he shouted, 'It's Ethel!'"

A letter calling attention to an overdue bill must be good to be read. It must be more than good to spur delinquents into reaching for their check books. Here's one that produced really spectacular results for an upstate dairy products company.

"Dear Sir: It has been said that a man who squeezes a dollar, never squeezes his wife. In looking over your account, it occurs to us that your wife cannot be getting the attention she deserves. Respy, etc., etc."

W. Va. Sales Tax Seen Meeting With Disfavor

Delegates Report Broad Reaction

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—“I got more telephone calls than I’ve ever gotten. Not one person that called me favored the income tax,” Del. Harry L. Burch, R-Ohio, said Monday.

He was reporting on the reaction he encountered in his home county over the weekend to Democratic Gov. W. W. Barron’s recommendation that the legislature enact a State personal income tax.

Not all legislators reported such one-sided sentiment. But the consensus of comments by senators and delegates indicated the proposal was looked upon with disfavor by the majority who contacted them on their first weekend trips home since Barron made his recommendation.

Sen. Arch W. Riley, D-Ohio, said his constituents were against the income tax mainly because “they were afraid of what it might grow into.”

Veteran Sen. Ward Wylie, D-Wyoming, said “the sentiment appeared 20 to 1 against it. People seemed to feel that they are loaded already with about as much as they now can pay.”

The Senate and House met only briefly Monday after the weekend recess, no legislation having yet come to the floor from committee. The major committees of both chambers met after adjournment.

Barron’s legislative program calls for $17.5 million in new revenue for economic development, roads, schools and other State improvements.

The keystone is the income tax recommendation. Barron has not revealed the details and the bill has not yet been introduced.

It is expected to account for $15 million of the proposed new revenue and to call for a State income tax amounting to 6 per cent of the amount of federal income tax paid by each taxpayer.

Markwood of the Markwood Furniture Store, property located at 87 North Main Street which has been occupied for many years by J. H. Markwood and Sons. Included in the same building is a separate store-room occupied by McCool’s Men’s Store.

The bank has employed the architectural firm of Martens Associates, architects and engineers, 1503 Virginia Street, Charleston, to prepare preliminary plans for a new and completely modern building on the Markwood site. This is the firm of architects who designed the new armory nearing completion on Potomac State College Campus.

The Farmers and Merchants Bank first opened for business on September 11, 1911 at 105 Armstrong Street. When they were ready to erect a new building, the Peoples Bank building was offered to them at an attractive price, and in 1925 the move was made to the quarters now occupied by the bank. The bank plans to be located in its new building later this year in observance of the 50th anniversary of its founding.

F. C. Boor, cashier states that due to the exceptionally rapid growth the bank has enjoyed in the last few years, it has completely outgrown its present facilities, especially in bookkeeping, vault, safety deposit, and office and teller quarters. The bank now has assets of over $6,000,000, whereas in 1925, when the present building was first occupied, assets totaled $1,100,000.

In addition to the above mentioned assets, the Trust Department which was established in 1955 has just accepted Trust No. 27 and now has assets of over $350,000. New quarters will be provided for this new and fast growing department, along with other facilities to efficiently serve its customers.

Arnold Palmer Is Voted Professional Athlete Of Year

Latrobe Golf Pro Receives $10,000 Belt

Floyd Patterson
2nd, Van Brocklin
3d In Hickok Poll

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, 31-year-old Latrobe, Pa. golfer, Monday was named winner of the 11th annual S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" poll.

Palmer, all-time money winning champion whose 1960 triumphs in the Masters and National Open among eight victories, was the second golfer to win the $10,000 diamond-studded, gold-buckled belt. He won by a margin of more than 100 points in the voting of sports writers and sportscasters.

Patterson Is Second

Floyd Patterson, first man to win back the heavyweight boxing title, was second, followed closely by Norm Van Brocklin, who led the Philadelphia Eagles to the National Football League championship.

Palmer received 73 first place votes of the 143 cast and a total of 302 points on a 3-2-1 basis. Patterson polled 35 firsts and 196 points and Van Brocklin drew 19 firsts and 176 points.

Bill Mazeroski, whose home run won the World Series for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was fourth with 53 points. Then came two pitchers, Vern Law of Pittsburgh and Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, tied for fifth place, each had 35 points.

Palmer was proclaimed the winner at the annual dinner of the Rochester Press and Radio Club. The entire proceeds of the dinner went to charity.

Ruth's Homer Record Safe, Maris Opines

High Of 60 To Stand
Despite Extra Games

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Roger Maris, the most valuable player in the American League in 1960, thinks Babe Ruth's home run record is safe despite the eight extra games on the schedule this year.

"Nobody will touch it," said the New York Yankee outfielder, a guest at the Rochester Press and Radio Club dinner. "Look up the records and you'll see that it's a rare year when anybody hits 50 homers, let alone 60 as Ruth hit in 1927."

Maris was right, too. Since 1938 when Hank Greenberg hit 58, the only man to hit 50 or more in the American League was Mickey Mantle who got 52 in 1956. In the National League Ralph Kiner topped 50 twice in that period (1947 and 1949). Johnny Mize also did it in 1947 and Willie Mays in 1955.

The American League will play 162 games this year, instead of the normal 154 because of the addition of new franchises in Washington and Los Angeles.

"The pitching is so tough and the defense is so good that you are doing pretty good if you hit .280 and get your share of home runs," said Maris who batted .283, hit 39 homers (second to Mantle) and led the league with 112 runs batted in.

Game Is Canceled

Ware Is Named West Virginia Grid Assistant

Coached High School Teams For 21 Years

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — The appointment of South Charleston High School Coach Dick Ware as a line coach at West Virginia University was announced Monday.

Ware, regarded as one of the top scholastic coaches in the Mountain State, will be primarily in charge of ends. Head Coach Gene Corum said. He will come here Feb. 1.

The 43-year-old Ware said he considered his new job to be the greatest honor of his career. "After 21 years at the high school level, I had nearly given up hope of joining the college ranks," he said.

Over the years, Ware's various high school football teams have won 132 games, while losing only 42 for a .751 winning percentage.

A 1940 graduate of Fairmont State College, Ware went to South Charleston last fall from Barboursville, where he had his most outstanding success.

During nine seasons at Barboursville, his teams had a 68-17 record, including three unbeaten seasons and one state championship. Last season, his South Charleston squad posted a 5-4-1 record, the Black Eagles' first winning season in almost 10 years.

Ware fills a vacancy created when Corum stepped up from assistant to head coach last spring following the resignation of Art (Pappy) Lewis.

Beal held Piedmont High's scoring ace, Vincent Fagan, to four points in the first half while building up a 26-16 edge at intermission. The Mountaineers trailed 9-8 at the quarter before surging in the second stanza.

Fagan took scoring honors in the game, however, ending with 18 points on seven goals and 4-6 fouls. Preston Green contributed 15 tallies in a losing cause for the Lions.

By 34-27 Score

Coach Bob Mattingly's SS. Peter and Paul quint brought the first half race in the Catholic Youth Basketball League right down to the wire last night by sweeping its series with St. Peter's of Westport, 34-27, on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

The win was the seventh in nine games for SS. Peter and Paul, trail league-leading St. Michael's (8-1) by one game. The two leaders will clash on Thursday in their final game of the initial half at 6:15 p.m. on the SS. Peter and Paul floor, a battle which could determine the first half champion.

A victory for the locals will tie up the race and necessitate a playoff for the title. A win for St. Michael's on Thursday will give the Frothingham team the crown. Pete Elliott and Spike Herboldshimer will officiate the important contest.

Field goals by Carey Kelly, Larry Becker and Art Mohler in the final minutes of last night's game broke a 27-27 tie and gave Coach Mattingly's charges the victory. The locals won the first meeting 44-25.

SS. Peter and Paul jumped off to a quick lead in last night's game only to see the Westport crew come back and lead at half time, 15-14. St. Peter's maintained a slim margin until SS. Peter & Paul tied the score at 23-23 at the third quarter end.

The two teams traded goals until the score was tied for the final time at 27-27. SS. Peter & Paul's three baskets then iced the verdict for the Cumberlanders. A foul by Mohler closed out the scoring.

Jack Turner and "Moose" Arnone will officiate.

Rebels Host Campers
Allegheny High School's eagles swing into action tonight at Hagerstown, hopeful of avenging the 70-64 overtime battle setback of December 28 on the Allegheny court. In that hair-raiser, Coach Nick Scallion's Rebels outscored the Campers 10-4 in the extra period after the regulation game ended in a 60-60 deadlock.

The Rebs have won 12 of 13 games and their only defeat came at the hands of unbeaten Martinsburg (45-41) which is 9-0 to date. Allegheny has won eight and lost three.

Allegheny and South High will be meeting for the eighth time since the Rebels came upon the basketball scene in 1957. The Campers hold a 4-3 edge in victories.

Potomac Valley Conference action tonight finds Capon Bridge at Wardensville, Circleville at Franklin and Paw Paw at Romney.

Mt. Savage At Ridgeley
Ridgeley High steps out of the P.V.C. to engage the Mt. Savage High Indians tonight at Ridgeley and Coach Tom O'Connor's Blackhaws will be seeking revenge for a 47-44 licking in the first game of the series. Ridgeley has won six and lost seven while Mt. Savage owns a 4-5 record.

Oldtown faces the West Virginia School for the Deaf at Romney while Flintstone opposes Mathias High School on the Hardy county's court. Mathias won the series opener at Flintstone, 59-44.

Northern High School's Huskies (5-7) invade Preston County, W. Va., to play Bruceton Mills while the Hyndman Hornets (4-6) host the Bedford High Bisons (1-8) in a Bedford County League game. Both schools are 0-3 in league play.

Bowie Racing Card Canceled, Program Resumes Wednesday

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Bowie Race Course ran into its usual winter troubles Monday—cancellation of the day's card.

This would have been the second day of a 48-day meet with the earliest opening in Maryland history.

Despite a foot of snow still around from last Thursday's blizzard, Bowie started Saturday on schedule. There were 9,281 fans on hand in the glass-enclosed stands to watch what turned out to be a grand day for long shot players.

However, when more snow started to fall Monday and roads to Bowie began to ice over, officials decided to call off the 55,000 Federal Purse allowance race and eight others on the Monday card.

The events could have been rescheduled for Tuesday, under a 1961 schedule that leaves Tuesdays as dark days just for the purpose of taking care of postponements.

But Bowie President Donald Lill, his decided to take no chances. A new card will be drawn up for Wednesday, and the last day will be made up Jan. 31.

the GREATEST!

Ty Cobb... The "Georgia Peach".

A FIERCE desire to be best, a great competitive spirit and the coordination of an All-American made Ty Cobb, the "Georgia Peach", the GREATEST baseball player in the history of the game.

Cobb, who became a millionaire through his baseball pay and investments, was one of the most loved, hated and controversial figures in the game for the 20-odd years he dominated the majors with his hitting, running and fighting.

As one biographer has said, Cobb could out-hit, out-run and out-fight anybody in the game and as for the rough stuff this son of a Georgia state senator fought not only the fans, but his own teammates as well.

And, when he retired in 1928, at the age of 41, he still was a feared performer who had hit .357 the year before. When he quit he told one and all he was quitting because of his legs, but that his great batting eye was still sharp. And he had proved it over the years.

BORN AT Narrows, Ga., December 18, 1886. Cobb became a professional baseball player at 18, and his fine year with Augusta of the South Atlantic league attracted the Detroit club, which purchased him for $700.

From then on, the name of Cobb was the biggest in all baseball, and when he finally quit stealing bases and banging out hits, his all-time batting percentage stood at .367, his fielding percentage at .959 and his stolen base mark at 892, including 96 stolen in one season, 1915.

A NERVOUS batter at the plate, but one who only hit the pitch he liked, Cobb was a whirling dervish on the base paths and many's the times he came in with spikes high. Many fistic encounters dotted his career, which included managing the Tigers and finally winding up as an outfielder with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Twice in his career he went over the 400 mark in batting, getting 420 in 1911 and 410 in 1912 in a day when there was no rabbit ball to help him. He led the American league in batting 12 times, nine times in a row.

Cobb early invested wisely in a soft drink concern and other industries. He commanded a $70,000 salary in the days when this was an astounding figure. Married twice, he had five children.

Today he still shows an interest in baseball as he confines his activity to playing golf and taking it easy.

Mitchell Is Named BYU Football Coach
PROVO, Utah (UPI)—Hal Mitchell, a member of the Brigham Young University coaching staff, Monday was named head football coach at BYU succeeding Tally Stevens.

Mitchell, 30, a former UCLA player, joined the BYU staff when Stevens became head coach after the resignation of Hal Kopp following the close of the 1958 season.

Stevens was fired earlier this month when school president Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson announced Stevens' contract would not be renewed.

Mitchell, who served as BYU freshman coach, coached at William S. Hart High School in Newhall, Calif., before coming to the Provo, Utah, school.

Bob Ferrell Leads D.&E. Five Against Potomac At Keyser

Bob Ferrell, 6-foot-2 captain, who is currently leading West Virginia college scorers with an average over 26 points per game, will be seen in action tonight at Keyser when Davis & Elkins College meets Potomac State in a West Virginia Collegiate Conference game.

D. & E. is in the Eastern Division of the conference and owns a 3-8 record, including an 85-44 victory over Potomac State on December 10. The Catamounts were 1-4 on that date but today finds Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's team with a 9-6 record. Potomac is in the Western Division of the W.V.C. and has won only one game in five starts in that circuit.

West Liberty whipped D.&E. Saturday night, 84-73 while Potomac State was trimming Shenandoah College in Virginia, 99-79.

Tonight's game is the first of three this week for the Catamounts who play at West Liberty Friday and at Wheeling College Saturday.

North Carolina Wants To Quit Cage Tourney

Would Withdraw From ACC Event

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The University of North Carolina asked the Atlantic Coast Conference Monday for permission to withdraw from the annual league basketball tournament in March.

The request was included in a telegram from UNC Chancellor William B. Aycock to conference Commissioner James H. Weaver.

The university's basketball team was handed a one-year probationary sentence recently by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and thus became ineligible for the NCAA basketball playoffs.

The winner of the ACC tournament, scheduled for March 24 at Raleigh, advances to the NCAA eliminations. If North Carolina were to win the ACC crown this year, the second place team would enter the national playoffs.

Weaver could not be reached for comment.

The decision on the North Carolina request lies with the conference Executive Committee composed of O. K. Cornwell of UNC, Brooks James of North Carolina State and Jim Penny of the University of South Carolina.

In announcing the action, Aycock said it was taken "in the interest of fair play to the other teams in this conference."

Irish Name Stadium After John Kennedy

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—The Irish Monday renamed the stadium where Herb Elliott ran his fabulous 3.54.5 mile after their most famous cousin—president of the United States, John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

A telegram from Washington saying "President Kennedy will be pleased to have the stadium named the John Kennedy Stadium" gave the Irish the okay. Previously the stadium was named after the village of Santry in County Dublin.

Australians Besiege Rock 'n' Roll Singers

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Five hundred screaming teenagers besieged American rock 'n' roll singers Brenda Lee and Oliver Cook for three hours Sunday in a room at Melbourne airport.

The teenagers tried to break down the door until police and firemen threatening to use fire hoses dispersed them. Brenda was trampled and Cook mauled as they moved from their plane to the building upon arrival.

Teen-agers screaming, "It's Cool" tugged at the beard of a Melbourne University scientist making a phone call in the airport lounge. They left the still-bearded scientist lying on the floor. Cook uses a false beard in his act.

Classified Status Sought For SRC Crews

Area Legislators To Sponsor Bills

Legislation to place State Roads Commission maintenance workers under the Maryland Classified system will be introduced in the General Assembly today, according to Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

He said identical bills will be sponsored in the Senate by State Senator Charles M. See and by the Allegany County Delegation in the House of Delegates.

The bill would provide job security and other advantages to some 800 SRC maintenance workers, sponsors said.

Del. Driscoll said the legislation would provide that workers who have been in the SRC maintenance staff for a year could take an oral examination to qualify as maintenance men in the classified system. Other workers could take the test as soon as they have a year's service. The state-wide bills would give workers, who are now employed on a per diem basis, all of the advantages offered by the state to its classified workers.

Del. Driscoll said Allegany County legislators were happy to introduce the legislation.

An informed source said he understood the proposal has the approval of the State Roads Commission.

Red Theorist Urges Universal Disarming

MOSCOW (AP)—Mikhail Suslov, a top Soviet theorist, Sunday night called for a program of universal disarmament which "would abolish the very possibility of waging wars."

He made his call in a report to the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee on the outcome of last November's Moscow summit meeting of world Communist leaders.

Suslov's statement, as quoted by the Soviet Tass news agency, touched on many known Soviet positions. It carried the usual attack on "imperialist aggression" but notably—in President Kennedy's first week in the White House—avoided any direct accusations against the United States.

Tots Contract TB

Reapportionment Commission Asked

By HERB THOMPSON
ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A resolution which could mean the end of reapportionment plans at this session of the General Assembly was introduced in the Maryland Senate Monday night.

Sponsored by 14 senators, enough to defeat any reapportionment bill that might come before the 29-member Senate, it calls for creating additional counties out of large ones to provide more seats in the legislature for populous areas.

The resolution was drafted by Sen. Louis N. Phipps, D-Anne Arundel, who advocated the plan last summer as the answer to reapportionment problems. It calls on Gov. Tawes to name a committee of eight senators, eight delegates and one non-legislator to a commission which would study the feasibility of the plan and report back to "either the 1961 or 1962 sessions of the General Assembly of Maryland."

Knockout Blow
Phipps acknowledges that passage of the joint resolution by the Senate (only 15 votes required) would virtually knock out any other reapportionment move in that chamber. Eighteen votes would be necessary to pass any proposed constitutional amendment to increase the number of seats in the assembly.

Asks New Approach
But the Anne Arundel senator says he sincerely believes it is the answer to the problem of giving larger counties more representation. He says he would be perfectly willing for his county to be divided to create a new county.

In House action Monday night, a bill aimed at keeping obscene literature out of the hands of children under 18 was passed and sent to the Senate.

The measure is an attempt to remove from a similar 1960 measure provisions which have been found unconstitutional by the courts, but backers acknowledge that the new bill also probably faces a court test on similar grounds.

The Senate passed and sent to the House bills including one which would authorize only lawyers to practice before the State Tax Court.

Anne Arundel is one of the four larger counties standing to gain seats from any reapportionment plan. Others are Baltimore, Montgomery and Prince Georges.

"We've tried everything else and it hasn't passed," Phipps said. "Why not take a fresh approach."

Sen. Frederick C. Malkus, D-Dorchester, chairman of the Judicial Proceedings Committee and an ardent foe of reapportionment, was among the co-sponsors joining Phipps and urging other senators to sign up.

"If we're going to have reapportionment, this would be the way to do it," Malkus said. "No one county would get so politically powerful it could jeopardize another."

See Is Sponsor

Bowling Green Firemen Get Annual Fire Report

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Department answered 34 first calls and three mutual aid calls during 1960, Allan Deffinbaugh, fire chief, reported to the company in the annual report.

The chief pointed out the company received 81 false alarms, most of which were due to persons dialing the wrong telephone number. Of this number, the alarms were not sounded on 47 calls.

Chief Deffinbaugh also reported there was no damage caused by fire during the year until December 26 when a trailer valued at $6,000 was destroyed.

1961 March Of Dimes Will Aid Fight On Arthritis

The 1961 March of Dimes will bring new hope for millions of Americans afflicted with one of mankind's oldest enemies — arthritis, said Frederick J. Hill Jr., Allegheny County director of the fund-raising campaign being held this month.

"The cause and cure of arthritis and similar diseases are still unknown, but some of the answers may be forthcoming as the result of the March of Dimes-supported program of the National Foundation," he said.

A number of National Foundation chapters with sufficient funds after meeting their polio obligations are also paying for patient aid to children under 19 who are afflicted with rheumatoid arthritis or with certain crippling birth defects.

"The National Foundation," he said, "will be able to do even more in its fight to prevent crippling diseases if public contributions to the 1961 drive are generous enough to permit further expansions if its program of research, patient aid and professional education."

This evening a dance will be held at the home of Tonkaway Tribe 120, Improved Order of Redmen, at 25 Bedford Street, according to Mr. Hill, who said the proceeds will be turned over to the drive fund.

Music for dancing which begins at 9 p.m. will be furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Rhythm. Local talent will present a program. Among the performers will be Kathy and Diane Ritchie. The public is invited.

Improved Weather Forecast

The weather forecast for today should be agreeable to everyone — mostly sunny with a high temperature in the 30's.

Yesterday afternoon the mercury rose to an unofficial high of about 32 degrees and the sun during the day helped melt some of the snow which accumulated since last Thursday.

However by last night the mercury dipped and left streets and highways in an icy condition. Maryland State Police and police of West Virginia and Pennsylvania said highways are still hazardous though passable.

More new snow moved into Western Maryland yesterday. About three inches fell in Garrett County where the temperature was about 15 above last night.

There was a rather heavy deposit of snow yesterday morning, flurries in the afternoon and by last night it stopped snowing.

Nearly an inch or so of new snow fell in the Cumberland area — just enough to make motor travel a little more hazardous.

Ice Skating Is Planned Here Tonight

The City Recreation Department hopes to sponsor ice skating tonight at Gephart Playground if the weather permits, according to C. Eugene Mason, director.

Plans made yesterday call for skating to be offered from 7 to 10 p.m. Hot drinks will be made available by the City Recreation Department.

If conditions are right, it will be the first skating offered by the department this season. Drifting snow prevented the use of the area during the extended cold spell in December.

The skating will be under the supervision of Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director.

She said parents are urged to come with their children to aid in supervising the activity, especially with younger children and beginner skaters.

The department has had many requests from students for afternoon skating but has had to turn down such requests, since it takes several hours for ice to set after it has been softened by afternoon sun.

Sled riding will be offered by the department as long as the snow holds. It was discontinued on one area, Linden Street, after the icy area was cindered.

Bar Association Plans Dinner Meeting

The first monthly dinner meeting of the Allegheny County Bar Association will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday at the Cumberland Country Club.

Two Companies Fight Blaze

Fire, smoke and water last night caused extensive damage to the interior of Harper's Park Lane, a restaurant owned and operated by Lucius Harper in Frostburg.

Volunteers of the Frostburg and Clarysville fire companies had trouble getting to the source of the blaze located between a built up ceiling and roof of the one-story building.

The firefighters were hampered by the thick smoke which was emitting from the area between the ceiling and roof.

Frostburg firemen received an initial call at 8:46 p.m. and later they called the services of the volunteers of Clarysville.

At least 40 or 50 volunteers from Frostburg fought the stubborn blaze. They took three trucks to the fire.

The fire seemed to be concentrated in the area midway in the building which is located about a block from Frostburg State Teachers College property.

The fire was possibly caused by an overheated furnace, according to the firemen, who returned to the station about 10:30 p.m.

Bookmobile Operation To Begin Feb. 6

Board Discusses Budget, Personnel

The Allegheny County Library bookmobile, which will take library service to all communities in the county which do not now have libraries, is expected to go into operation on or about Monday, February 6.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the county library held last night in the court house, reports on progress to date were outlined.

Dr. Adam Baer, chairman, said that Miss Mary C. Walsh reported on applications for a bookmobile librarian-driver, and an announcement should be made shortly as to who this person is.

There was also discussion concerning the employment of a cataloguer, to work in the Cumberland library. Miss Walsh said that over 5,500 books have been received from the state, which is part of the county's allotment, made to county library systems. She also stated that books are being readied for the bookmobile, which will carry a total of 1,800 volumes, including fiction, reference works, children's books and other volumes.

James Alfred Avirett, treasurer to the board, was instructed to file an application with the city engineer for a building permit for an addition to the rear of the Cumberland Library annex. This addition, to be constructed to conform with the present brick structure and architecture of the annex, will be used to house the new bookmobile and for loading and unloading purposes.

Other remodeling in the library and the annex were discussed and John Mason, county commissioner and board member, was authorized to proceed in obtaining specifications and estimates.

There was discussion of the budget and other questions pertaining to the operation of the entire county library system and its branches. Letters were read from members of the House of Delegates from this county stating they will co-sponsor and support state-aid to libraries legislation.

The board also began preliminary work on the budget to be submitted to the Board of Allegheny County Commissioners early next month, and Miss Walsh was given authorization to proceed with the employment of a bookmobile librarian-driver and a cataloguer. Board members present included Dr. Baer, Commissioner Mason, Mr. Avirett, Okey Michael, Westernport; F. Allan Weatherholt, and Miss Walsh.

The next meeting of the board will be February 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Court House.

Tawes Backs Loan Firm Regulation

Commission Would Administer Rules

By LOUIS G. PANOS
ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Monday night promised his "complete support" to a bill aimed at regulating the State's savings and loan industry and thereby removing "a blot on the fair name of Maryland."

The governor made the statement at a press conference attended by members of his commission which drafted the measure.

Chairman Richard W. Case said the bill will be introduced in the current 90-day session of the legislature within the next day or two.

It would be the first broad regulatory law on the subject in Maryland, now the only state in the nation which allows savings and loan firms to operate virtually free of supervision or obligation to report to their investors.

Industry Backs

With only a few changes from preliminary proposals announced earlier, it would set up an unpaid commission to regulate the industry, create the job of a full-time commission director to carry out these regulations, and erect certain standards to be met by firms doing savings and loan business in Maryland.

The measure also would require savings and loan associations to operate as mutual stock firms, authorize the commission to limit the value of giveaways offered as a lure to depositors, and prohibit firms from lending money on second mortgages unless they also hold first mortgages to the same property.

Tawes said these and other provisions provided the comprehensive type of regulation lacking in another bill which he vetoed after enactment by the 1960 legislature.

He added that, unlike the earlier bill, this one has the backing of most major segments of the industry.

However, stiff opposition is expected to be raised, particularly from representatives of firms which now offer more than one type of stock and therefore would be forced out of the savings and loan business.

Hits Promoters

"I am convinced that the proposed legislation is reasonable and will afford to depositors the security and protection to which they are entitled," said the governor.

"This legislation ought to remove a blot on the fair name of Maryland, which has been placed upon it by some self-seeking promoters from within and outside the border of our state who have, without concern for safety or protection of depositors, taken advantage of lack of at least minimum requirements for obtaining of charters and subsequent regulation and supervisions."

Two Men Held On State Warrants

Two local men were picked up yesterday by city police on state warrants involving the theft of copper and lead.

They were booked as Olie and William Sponaule and were being held last night in the city jail on warrants issued by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett charging the theft of 212 pounds of copper and 235 pounds of lead from the Potomac Edison Company.

When Olie Sponaule was tried yesterday on a motor vehicle charge, he gave his age as 30 and his address as 95 Glenwood Street. William Sponaule was booked under a 210 Paca Street address.

DAVID E. KIRK

Assessor Helped In Previous Drives

David E. Kirk, senior assessor for the Allegheny County Assessing Department, will serve as special events chairman for the 1961 Heart Fund drive, it was announced yesterday by F. Allan Weatherholt, general campaign chairman.

Mr. Kirk worked for the Heart Fund as Allegheny County chairman in 1959 and 1960 and has assisted in various other fund raising endeavors.

As special events chairman, Mr. Kirk will head assorted projects in order to raise funds for the heart campaign during February.

In accepting the campaign post, Mr. Kirk asked residents of Allegheny and Garrett counties, which are aided through funds collected by the Allegheny-Garrett County Heart Association, to donate to the drive so that more can be done in fighting heart disease and related diseases which account for more deaths in the country than all other illnesses combined.

Mr. Kirk, who resides at 110 LeFevre Road, is a native of Barton and has been active in volunteer firemen's work and Civil Defense.

He is secretary of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company and former secretary and vice president of the Barton Hose Company. He served a term as president of the Allegheny-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association, and currently is serving his fourth term as executive board member of the state firemen's association.

Mr. Kirk is also serving at present as coordinator of fire service in the Civil Defense system. He formerly was liaison officer for the county firemen's radio network.

A sports enthusiast, the new special events chairman utilized an athletic adage in respect to the heart fund drive. "The best defense against heart disease," he said, "is a good offense supplied with dollars so the nation's worst health enemy can be combated."

Freight Derails Near Swanton

Wreck crews from Cumberland and Grafton late last night were working to clear the three main tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad which were blocked just east of Swanton when 16 freight cars of an eastbound High Car 94 derailed yesterday morning.

A railroad spokesman, who said no one was hurt, reported that the first of the main tracks probably will not be cleared until sometime this morning.

Meanwhile rail traffic was being re-routed through Connellsville on the Pittsburgh Division and then over the Chieftain branch to Fairmont and Grafton.

Cause Unknown

Pending a further investigation by railroad officials, the cause of the derailment at 9:48 a.m. was not known last night nor was there an estimation of damage.

Through service on the B&O's Cumberland Division between Keyser and Grafton was blocked by the derailment and snow-covered roads in the area slowed efforts to bring work crews to the scene of the wreck.

The railroad spokesman said that the derailed cars contained tires, lumber, canned goods, copper, flour and other miscellaneous freight.

He said the freight was bound for the Cumberland terminal where it would have been re-switched to various other points.

Westbound Passenger Train 11 from Cumberland to Parkersburg was re-routed as were eastbound Train No. 12, and Train No. 1 which is westbound.

Officials said the pileup was caused when the 11th car of the eastbound freight derailed as the train was starting down the 17-mile grade, about 1 1/2 miles west of Keyser.

Locomotive On Tracks

B. F. Hotchkiss, trainmaster for the Cumberland West End at Keyser, said the locomotive units and first 10 cars of the 115-car train remained on the tracks.

The cars which left the track jammed across the three main tracks. Mr. Hotchkiss said workers could not drive into the scene of the accident due to the high snow drifts on the back roads in that area.

He and other officials were to go by the work train to the scene. Work cranes from here and Grafton were dispatched to the scene to clear up the wreckage.

J. C. Lang of McCoolle was engineer on the train and J. E. Chedester of Keyser was conductor.
